ASK COUNCIL TO PASS NEW ORDINANCE FOR DOGS

Protective Association in Mass Meeting Protests Present Measure

The Dog Protective association's meeting last night, in the auditorium of the high school, was attended by about 150 "dog lovers,' several of whom admitted that "the more they see of humans the better they like dogs."

Edwin F. Kulp, of 1234 Viola avenue, who presided as chairman of the meeting, read the following announcement:

"The purposes of the Dog Protective association are to eliminate the objectionable features of existing ordinances or laws regulating dogs, to co-operate with the authorities in the preparation of desirable regulations concerning dogs, to redress any injustices suffered by any member through the enforcement of the existing dog ordinance. As citizens and taxpayers, we insist upon the right to indicate legislation for our property."

Following the request of Mayor Spencer Robinson at the last session of the City Council that objections to the present canine ordinance be put into writing, the following petition was signed by a majority of those present.

Sign Petition

"We, the undersigned citizens of Glendale and dog owners and lovers of dogs, respectfully request that you revoke the ordinance now in force pertaining to dogs. We feel that such regulation is unnecessary and a decided hardship, not only upon dogs, but the owners of the same. As it is felt that some regulation of dogs is necessary, we request that you invite to conference with you a number of dog owners in order that a decision may be reached which will be mutually satisfactory. This request has the hearty support of the Dog Protective association."

The speaker of the evening was Dr. W. A. Turner of Los Angeles who declared that, during a long professional practice, he had never encountered a genuine case of rabies. He asserted that $450,000,000 is invested in "serum factories," in which many physicians have stock, and that it is absolutely necessary that a market be created for its vaccines and products. He called attention to an immediate decrease in hydrophobia epidemics in England following the abolition of the Pasteur institutes.

Distempered Condition

After quoting the dog catcher of Philadelphia as saying that among several hundred thousand dogs he had never seen a case of rabies, Dr. Turner remarked:

"What they call rabies is a distempered condition of dogs or any other animal that does not get clean food and clean drinking water. I have twice been bitten by dogs called mad. I am not dead yet, I never had rabies and I don't intend to have rabies. Many of the people, who are reported as dying from rabies die from two causes—either they are scared to death or they die from the vaccine serum."

The filth of vaccine serum was denounced by Dr. Turner. He reminded the audience that "As ye sow, so shall ye reap" and expressed his opinion that it is impossible to prevent disease in either humans or dogs by injecting neutralizing disease germs into their system. He added that

BROKERS FAIL IN $11,000,000 CRASH

Noted Financial House Is Involved in Latest Wall Street Sensation

NEW YORK, June 16.—Failure of the stock brokerage firm of Knauth, Nachod & Kuhne was announced on the floor of the New York stock exchange today. It was estimated that the liabilities were $11,000,000, but a member of the firm claimed that they were fully covered by assets.

This is the latest of a sensational series of suspensions which have taken place in Wall street in the past ten weeks.

The firm of Knauth, Nachod & Kuhne, which has been in business for more than 70 years, consists of Rollin C. Newton, Mrs. Mary I. W. Knauth, Oscar L. Gubleman and James F. Shaw, Herbert B. Smithers, Theodore W. Knauth and John R. Ball.

The firm was admitted to the New York stock exchange March 28, 1895. It conducted a banking and brokerage business with headquarters at 120 Broadway.

An involuntary petition in bankruptcy was filed against the firm in United States district court and Middleton S. Borland was appointed receiver under bond of $50,000.

Girl With Her Back Broken In Elopement

SAN FRANCISCO, June 16.—A broken back did not deter pretty 19-year-old Jean Strang from eloping.

Confined to a hospital for more than a year, Miss Strang was permitted yesterday to go for an automobile ride. Her faithful sweetheart, George C. Franklin, also 19, who since the automobile accident in which she was injured has haunted her bedside, carried her to his machine.

Two hours later they had not returned and Mrs. Rebecca Strang, becoming worried, asked the police to find them. The police failed, but today Mrs. Strang was notified that her daughter and Franklin had been married last night at Redwood City.

The bride, her back encased in a wooden brace, was carried to the altar by the bridegroom and a chum.

BULGAR LEADERS MAKE WAR PLANS

Troop Mobilization Brings Intervention Threat by Little Entente

By DAVID M. CHURCH
For International News Service

LONDON, June 16.—While the Bulgarian legation formally denied today that the new revolutionary government at Sofia is militaristic, press advices from various Balkan centers reported the Bulgarian government taking warlike measures, according to a Daily News dispatch from Athens. Greek officials claim the Sofia government has concentrated 70,000 troops. It is reported that hundreds of bands of Bulgarian irregulars have cast their lot with the government against the peasant "orange guard."

The Sofia correspondent of the Times reported severe fighting, in which the casualties were heavy. Revolutionary leaders believe they will have little difficulty in putting down counter-revolution now that former Premier Alexander Stambulisky, the peasant leader, is dead.

Peasant bands, carrying flags of truce, were alleged to have fired upon revolutionary troops. The latter returned the fire. In some instances, the peasant forces were almost annihilated.

King Will Flee

Armed peasant detachments are trying to approach Sofia. King Boris is said to have made preparations to flee by airplane in event the peasants are successful.

Bulgarian irregulars (comitadjis) are becoming active on the Thracian frontier. Athens reports that two Greek gendarmes were killed by Bulgars near the western border of Thrace, the bodies being mutilated.

Diplomatic circles are anxious over the entire Balkan situation While Premier Zankoff has promised demobilization of the Bulgarian troops, the reported successes of the peasants make this step impossible.

The little entente—Jugo-Slavia, Roumania and Czech-Slovakia—is threatening to intervene unless immediate steps are taken for demobilization.

Great Britain is getting somewhat anxious over the effect of the Bulgarian overthrow upon Balkan tranquillity. The foreign office may query Bulgaria officially as to her intentions regarding her neighbors.

Damage Suit May Be Settled Out of Court

LONG BEACH, June 16.—Filed nearly two years ago as the result of the alleged seizure of thousands of dollars' worth of goods during the so-called ripe olive scare, the Curtis corporation $1,000,000 damage suit against the members of the Detroit Board of Health probably will be settled out of court, it was learned here today.

The Board of Health has paid in full thousands of dollars' worth of claims growing out of the alleged seizure, according to word received by Curtis officials today from Attorney Arthur P. Hicks of Detroit.

In his letter, Hicks asks if the local company would now consent to a dismissal of the suit as the result of the board's settlement. The matter will be taken under advisement but it is unlikely that an answer will be returned for several days, as the Curtis officials expressed themselves in "no particular hurry" to settle.

Will Meet to Settle Debt Pact's Wording

WASHINGTON, June 16.—Conferences over the final wording of the British American debt agreement probably will be resumed next week, officials of the American commission said today.

$400,000 HOTEL PROJECT AT BRAND AND CALIFORNIA IS COMPLETELY FINANCED

Ground Will Be Broken Within Next Sixty Days; Subscribers to Meet June 20 and Name Board Of Directors

GROUND will be broken within sixty days for the erection of a $400,000 fireproof hotel, including the value of the lot, at the northwest corner of Brand boulevard and California avenue, it being announced this morning at 11 o'clock that the project was completely financed. Announcement was made by Mattison B. Jones, following a session of the finance committee held in the offices of J. A. Endicott, 116 South Brand boulevard, said committee comprising, in addition to Mr. Jones and Mr. Endicott, Messrs. R. F. Kitterman, J. B. Burn, D. H. Smith and Dr. E. H. Parker.

The big hotel will front 104 feet on Brand boulevard and 150 feet on California avenue, and will contain four floors and a basement. It will front east on Brand boulevard, where there will be six stores along the street level, with five additional stores along the California avenue side, a total of eleven select shops, offering patrons and passersby a variety of high-grade wares.

The interior of the main floor will be devoted to a large and handsome lobby, elevator cages and other appointments not yet definitely determined. The upper three floors will be devoted to fifty two-room-and-bath apartments and fifty hotel rooms with bath, equipped and furnished in the finest manner.

Architect Not Chosen

The basement will be devoted to central heating, refrigerating, water and service departments, together with storerooms and other necessary adjuncts to a 100-unit hotel.

As no architect has yet been selected, Mr. Jones stated that definite construction plans cannot be announced at this time. It can, however, be stated that the building will be of the "H" type, with brick and terra cotta exterior, and will cost approximately $300,000, exclusive of the value of the lot.

It is hoped to have the hotel finished and in operation by January 1, 1924, he said.

The name decided upon for the organization that will erect the structure is the Glendalia Hotel company, a $500,000 corporation, with par value of stock $100 per share. The name was selected because of the fact that the property on which the hotel will be built comprises lots 37 and 39, of the Glendalia Park tract.

Subscribers to Meet

A meeting of the subscribers has been set for next Wednesday night, June 20, at 7:30 o'clock, in the offices of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce, Citizens' building, 152 South Brand boulevard. At this time directors will be selected and all steps authorized for the immediate incorporation of the company, Mr. Jones announces.

Those interested plan to make the big hotel a splendid public monument of which all Glendale will be proud, as well as a sound private investment. By the accomplishment of this two-fold plan, it is believed by the finance committee and others actively interested that the entire city will be greatly benefited.

RESIDENTS FLEE AS RIVER RISES

Floods Threaten Nebraska Towns as Water Spreads To High Levels

LINCOLN, Neb., June 16.—The flood in the Platte river valley which threatened towns along that river Thursday and Friday was reaching a serious stage today. The South Platte river at Ogallala, Neb., was out of its banks, flooding homes in that town, and was continuing to rise, and residents there were hurriedly seeking higher ground.

Keith county commissioners had been notified Monday of the flood danger, but had failed to take preventive measures. With their residences full of water, indignation is running high among the citizens.

The rain-soaked section in northeastern Nebraska near Norfolk was visited by a severe tornado late yesterday, which did much damage to crops and farm buildings, but failed to strike a town or village.

Hail Does Damage

DENVER, June 16.—Property damage approximating $25,000, a number of livestock killed and many ranch buildings wrested from their foundations and wrecked, was wrought by a tornado and hail storm at Colorado Springs late Friday evening, according to word reaching this city today. The rain, which was the heaviest of the season, was accompanied by hail stones as large as baseballs and it was from these that most of the damage was done. The precipitation was said to be 1.95 inches, the heaviest on record.

BALKAN VOLCANO RUMBLING AGAIN

Demobilized Officers Flock To Join Colors of Bulgarian Army

ATHENS, June 16.—The Balkan volcano again is threatening eruption today as a result of the Bulgarian overthrow. Fugitives reaching the Thracian frontier declare that the Sofia uprising which overturned the Stambulisky government was distinctly militaristic.

Macedonians have organized a nationalist movement, demanding Macedonian autonomy. Any attempt to set up an independent republic in Macedonia would be sure to lead to international difficulties.

Many of the last twenty thousand officers demobilized by Bulgaria under the treaty of Neuilly are reported to have returned to the colors.

Civil War Raging

BELGRADE, June 16.—Refugees arriving today from Bulgaria report that civil war exists there.

Regular telegraphic communication between Jugo-Slavia and Sofia is interrupted, hampering diplomatic exchanges.

"Orange guards" were reported to have gained a victory over the revolutionary forces near Sofia.

In these words, United States Senator Woodbridge N. Ferris, of Michigan, predicted that Ford would be a candidate for president in the 1924 election.

"I could not support him; he is not a Democrat; and neither is he a Republican. Just what his principles are I don't know," Senator Ferris added.

Senator Ferris said that he believed it would be Harding against McAdoo in 1924.

COLORADO CITIES IN FLOOD'S PATH

Cloudbursts Send Wall of Water Sweeping Down Poudre River

FORT COLLINS, Colo., June 16.—A series of cloudbursts that swept the Poudre river, sending the stream out of its banks, today threatened residents of the lowlands of Fort Collins and Greeley. The heavy walls of water swept down from the vicinity of Livermore, north of here, and inundated large areas of farm land and the lower section of this city, inhabited largely by Mexican sugar beet workers. The waters of the Poudre had receded slightly early today, but fear was expressed that heavy damage would result to live stock. Residents of the lowlands in Greeley were moving beyond danger of the raging river.

The Buckhorn river, near Loveland, went out of its banks during the night and several bridges were swept away, cutting Loveland off from all rail and automobile connection with Denver. No loss of life was reported.

REALTORS READY FOR HIGH JINKS

Business in the offices of the members of the Glendale Realty Board was conducted in a somewhat desultory manner all this morning, because of the fact that the members and their forces were looking ahead to this afternoon's Jinks at the Haddock & Nibley Verdugo park, and it was hard to keep their attention on the unromantic details of real estate transfers while the woods and the open spaces beckoned so alluringly, and when men and women who keep their minds close to their work all the year see an opportunity to shed business cares for a day and frolic around with their friends.

Everything in the way of formality is to be abandoned before the members reach the park, according to an ultimatum issued by W. L. Twining, chairman of the Jinks committee, who, with his able corps of committeemen, has been working faithfully to make Jinks day one t hat will be a pleasure from start to finish.

Features of Program

The high lights of the day's fun will be the ball game that is to be staged under the direction of Elsa Jane, and in which the women members of the profession will have the leading parts; the dinner that is to be eaten under the live oaks of the park; the dancing, the camp fires, the songs, games and jests that will fly like hail all afternoon; and, best of all, the fire of repartee between those three cross-talk comedians, President C. D. Thom, Mayor Spencer Robinson and W. L. Twining, who can do more to banish that stiff, formal atmosphere from any gathering than any others in the profession.

The Jinks has been restricted to the members of the board and their families, with representatives of the newspapers as specially invited guests, and the way in which the weather man showed up this morning with a fine, clear day, warm, genial sun shows that he has a warm spot in his changeable heart for the men and women who are doing so much in the development of the Southland.

Inquest on Gangster Repeats Death Scene

LOS ANGELES, June 16.—Reconstructing the action in the death drama in which Frank J. Bradley, alleged gangster, was slain by Charles W. Clepper, Tia Juana bartender and gunman, an inquest was to be held today over the body of the slain man.

Details of the altercation between Bradley and Clepper, which ended a long-standing feud between them, were related by Clepper and persons who stood by while the death struggle was waged which ended in Bradley's slaying.

RESULTS OF C. C. DRIVE ARE TOLD IN DETAIL

Board of Directors Well Pleased With Outcome Of Short Campaign

The board of directors of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce met last night for the first time since the active work of the expansion campaign started, and the review of the conditions that are apparent at the close of the drive formed a matter for sincere congratulation to every member of the board, not alone for the number of new members that were added or the amount of money subscribed for the work of the organization, but mainly on account of the revival of the community spirit that has been manifested as a result of the work done by the men who devoted their time for the past week to the campaign to put the Chamber of Commerce in a position where it could carry out its program to work for a bigger and a better Glendale.

In addition to the survey of the results of the campaign, the directors transacted the accumulated routine work that has piled up since the regular work was sidetracked to permit the drive to be carried out, remaining at the offices of the organization until close to midnight.

Results of Campaign

The Glendale Chamber of Commerce expansion campaign, that was launched on Monday night with the banquet and on which active work started on Tuesday morning, came to an end yesterday at noon amid scenes of enthusiasm and manifestations of a rejuvenated community spirit that form a happy augury for the future activity of the organization and that speed it on its career with the assurance of the support and active co-operatiton of an enlarged and aggressive body of members.

When the final reports were being turned in at yesterday's luncheon and the final tabulations of the points scored by the different teams were being calculated, P. J. Hayselden, a member of the H. M. Kuhn team of the Blue division, opened the heavy firing with the announcement that Walter H. Leimert Company, the subdividers of Bellehurst Park, had contributed $750, with the assurance that more would be forthcoming later, and another $50 from the Tropico Potteries helped to swell the total points in the Kuhn column to 2,351¼, sending this organization into first place in the entire group of workers.

$3,000 Is Pledged

W. E. Hewitt came to bat next with the thanks of the directors of the Chamber of Commerce for every man who had worked on any of the teams, stating that the campaign that has just closed has brought the people of Glendale closer together and has helped to develop a spirit of co-operation with the Chamber of Commerce that promises to make the organization stronger and more effective than it has ever been. Mr. Hewitt concluded his remarks with the statement that he had secured a pledge of $3,000 for the service fund, with the additional promise that the amount may be raised to $5,000, and the attendant enthusiasm nearly split the tables at which the members of the crews were eating luncheon.

R. F. Kitterman, another director, reported pledges that he

FOREIGNERS FEAR CHINESE RISING

New War Lord Dominates All of China Outside of Treaty Ports

PEKING, June 16.—Threatening news came today from the great Yangste river region, predicting a general anti-foreign uprising. Japanese communities in Hupeh and Hunan provinces have forwarded protests against student agitation and alleged constant maltreatment.

The protest of the Shanghai American association and Chamber of Commerce sent to Washington has made a deep impression in Peking. It contained six demands for the protection of life and property.

Esco Kun, newest war lord to appear on the Chinese horizon, with his Chihli party, today dominated China from the Great Wall to the Yangtse river. Opposition to his regime is centered only in the treaty ports.

Safe in Tien Tsin, President Li Yuan Hung, whose abdication was forced, today indicated he plans to oppose the new government. In a document personally signed by Li, but not bearing the official seal, the deposed president bitterly complains of his treatment at the hands of the Chinese military and asks the help of the diplomatic body.

Eagle Is Feature

A great eagle, with wings outspread, resting on a rich floral mound, was the decorative feature last night in the banquet room of the Masonic hall, where Omar Shrine, No. 9, White Shrine of Jerusalem entertained in celebration of the initiation of eight candidates from Eagle Rock.

The entire hall and banquet tables were most elaborately decorated. A profusion of asparagus fern hung in garlands across the hall and banked each window. Bouquets of yellow and white flowers were placed alternately in the windows. On the platform were the stuffed eagle on the mound of flowers, two pedestals bearing beautiful bouquets of dahlias and asparagus fern.

Arranged in the form of a cross, the tables presented a gay appearance with bouquets of yellow coreposis and flat arrangement of sword fern and yellow and white nut cups.

A special birthday table was arranged under the direction of Olga Constance Bowen.

The committee in charge of the general arrangements included mesdames May Warrick, Porter M. Custer, E. R. Naudain, Mattie Reed, Mayme H. Brooks, E. Foor, Luella Emerick and Kate Delgardo.

Seated at the places of honor were Evely G. Pierce, worthy high priestess; D. Ripley Jackson, watchman of the shepherds, two supreme officers and the Eagle Rock members, who were initiated before the banquet hour. Visitors were present from San Diego, Los Angeles and other states.

During the banquet Mrs. Custer sang an original welcome song.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Brice of 304 North Kenwood street was the scene of a pleasant affair Wednesday night of this week when Mrs. Clark Christy entertained at a dinner party in honor of the birthday of her sister, Miss Leone Brice. Those present included Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Radcliffe, Mr. and Mrs. Clark Christy, Misses Leone Brice, Eleanor Brice and Ruth Gilner, and James King, Yates Scott and Charles Brice, Jr.

Church Wedding

In the artistic little Church of the Flowers in Forest Lawn park Miss Alta Anderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Anderson of Oak street, became the bride of Joseph F. Free of Burbank, at a morning ceremony Thursday morning, June 14, 1923. Rev. H. E. Mullen was the officiant, reading the single ring service before a small company of relatives and friends at 10 o'clock.

The architectural beauty of the little church, bathed in the charm of the mellow light shining through the wonderful art glass windows, was enhanced Thursday by the use of quantities of Cecil Brunner roses in decoration. These delicate flowers harmonized with the perfect setting provided by the blooming flowers and plants growing in the cloisters on either side of the nave.

Just before the hour for the ceremony Miss Audrey Oliver of Hollywood sang "Thank God for a Garden."

Miss Anderson was beautifully gowned in white georgette, draped over white satin, and carried a shower bouquet of Cecil Brunner roses, lilies of the valley and maidenhair fern.

She was attended by Miss Helen Gettys, who was charming in orchid georgette, with an arm bouquet of orchid shaded sweet peas and maidenhair fern.

Mr. Free was attended by Harold J. Russell of Glendale. Ushers were Harry and Howard Merriken.

Both young people have countless friends in Los Angeles, Glendale and Burbank, who will be interested in their marriage. Mrs. Free has enjoyed a social popularity in Glendale and Hollywood. Presents Stunts Clever stunts were the entertainment last night, when Mrs. Charles A. Parker, director of the Madrigal club, received the club members at her home at 212 North Orange street.

The fun began with Mrs. Parker's presentation of how a deaf and dumb girl would recite the story of Jonah and the whale. Then Mrs. F. B. Maynard introduced the really classical element of the affair, reciting dramatically the prologue in old English to Spencer's "Fairie Queen." Mrs. E. B. Moore appeared as a small child and "spoke her piece," while Mrs. Byrd won much applause with a vocal solo.

There were also piano music by Mrs. J. A. Wright, blackboard drawings by Mrs. Helen MacMullin, and illustrated stories by Mrs. Paul Hoffman.

Late in the evening lunch was served by the hostess.

The cloudy weather of yesterday offered splendid atmosphere for the miscellaneous shower given last night at the Stephen C. Packer home, 362 Riverdale Drive, for Miss Florence Gower, who is to become the bride of Heman Edgerley, July 3.

It was a complete surprise for Miss Gower, who was invited to a reunion of school friends at the Packer home. She was not aware she was the honoree until a note was delivered to her stating that a shower was threatened and she had better bring in the clothes off the line.

BURBANK

NEW INDUSTRIAL CENTER IS PLAN

J. F. Fawkes Property to Be Divided; Personal And Social Notes

Burbank is to have a new industrial center, with greatly increased prosperity, together with growth of population and general development, if present plans carry.

The project involves the cutting into industrial sites of the J. W. Fawkes property, some twenty-eight acres with a frontage on Olive avenue, from Flower street to Main street, and extending eastward to a line between Angeleno and Tujunga avenues, were these streets cut through.

The okeh of the Southern Pacific railway is all that is required to start things moving, it is understood, the stipulation being that this company build a spur track from its right-of-way, through the center of the street to Main street.

C. B. Smurr, industrial agent for the railway, states that he is practically certain his company will fulfill its part of the proposed development, pointing out that by putting in this spur they will obtain a seventeen foot right-of-way, with an additional fifteen feet on either side for spurs from the main spur.

Offers Road Site

J. W. Fawkes, moreover, has offered to allow thirty feet along the east line of his property for a road, providing property owners along the opposite side of the street will give thirty feet, making a sixty foot street through the premises.

In connection with this project, it is understood that several big operations are contemplated, among them the filling in of the wash toward the upper end of the tract. And a number of prominent manufacturers are known to be seriously considering the location, should developments proceed as planned.

THE JUNE ISSUE OF THE LADIES' HOME JOURNAL SAYS:

A Revival of religion as an adjunct to daily living and daily health is thrilling through the churches. Its converts are holding aloft the Bible, with its records of the practice of a Great Physician. Almost any Sunday now in your own church you may hear of divine healing.

Meanwhile out in Chicago there is Paul Rader, president of the Christian and Missionary Alliance. At its inception thirty-five years ago, when the Reverend A. B. Simpson, a Presbyterian minister, left his New York pulpit to organize it, the adherents of the Alliance were looked upon as a peculiar people. They have always practiced faith healing. Now the organization has grown to number some three hundred and fifty churches in the United States, which, since the death of the founder, have come under the direction of Paul Rader.

For a few years past it has been happening in city after city that some important Main Street minister has put on his hat and gone across the town to investigate what the little obscure Christian and Missionary Alliance church was doing to draw such crowds. Some time later, perhaps, a brother clergyman, returned from a metropolitan convention, reports that fashionable New York churches are doing the same thing. And suddenly the healing that was peculiar has become popular.

So popular are the Christian and Missionary Alliance tenets becoming today that in town after town the little Alliance church can no longer contain the people that crowd to hear its evangelists. The largest hall that can be hired is required.

The Gospel Tabernacle is the headquarters of the Christian and Missionary Alliance in Glendale. Rev. C. H. Chrisman, Pastor.

In The Spotlight Of Sport — By WOOD COWAN

ABOUT EVERY TIME I FACE THIS PRUETT PERSON HE HANDS ME ONE OF THESE ROUND TRIP TICKETS
RETURN TRIP TICKET FROM HOME PLATE TO THE BENCH
AS THE INDIAN SIGN ON RUTH, GOT HIM SWINGING LIKE AN OLD SHIRT ON THE LINE, MOST EVERY TIME THEY FACE EACH OTHER
WOOD COWAN
HUBERT
IN THIS YOUNGSTER THE ST. LOOIE BROWNS HAVE UNEARTHED ONE OF THE BEST SOUTHPAW PROSPECTS IN YEARS
PRUETT HAS A PUZZLING, FREAK DELIVERY THAT HAS 'EM ALL YELLING FOR THE COPS

Here is Babe Ruth's nemesis.

His name is Hubert Pruett. There's certainly nothing in that name to throw fear into the mighty "King of Swat," but the fact remains nevertheless that Hubert has the edge on Ruth.

Ten times, Pruett pitching, the Babe stepped to the plate with his formidable bludgeon, filled with the hope of adding one more missing baseball to the club's losses. But seven times out of the ten this kid twirler handed the Babe a return ticket to the bench by the strike-out route—and in one contest he whiffed the great home-run king twice, with two men on bases in both instances.

That made Mr. Pruett.

But later he fanned Ruth four consecutive times.

Pruett uses a fade-away along with a deceptive freak delivery. Many pitchers have tried to match the mighty Mathewson in mastering the fade-away, but young Pruett has come as close to Matty's form as any—only the St. Looie star flings from the port side, and when he gets a few more years under his hat he should possess a ball even more puzzling.

This little chap weighs but 155, is five feet three inches tall, and of slight physique. By concentrating on and mastering the fade-away Pruett attracted the attention of big league scouts, who, after looking over his side-arm shoots, took him south last year with the Browns.

Pruett delivers his fade-away with a sweeping side arm swing, the ball gripped with the thumb and first two fingers, and shooting out between the second and third fingers of the pitching hand. This causes the ball to make a sharp break downward at the plate and fade away.

KEARNS MAY CALL OFF TITLE BOUT

Failure of Promoters to Put Up Money May Halt July 4 Bout

By DAVIS J. WALSH
For International News Service

GREAT FALLS, Mont., June 16.—At 4 o'clock this afternoon, mountain time, it will be known with definite and official finality whether the Dempsey-Gibbons fistic enterprise is to be "worked" in an extended effort to reach pay dirt or abandoned as a lost claim. At that hour Jack Kearns, Dempsey's man of business, will call upon the Shelby promoters and the moneyed interests of Great alls to produce $100,000 due him yesterday by agreement, or surrender all claim to the champion's services for his bout with Tom Gibbons July 4.

As matters stood at the conclusion of a conference long after midnight, George H. Stanton, Great Falls banker, had promised to advance $50,000 of the money due, providing the remainder of the installment was forthcoming at the hour named. Otherwise(he seemed to intimate, he would secrete his $50,000 under his arm and go his disinterested way.

Smoked out of his habitual calm by this disconcerting prospect, Jim Johnson, mayor of Shelby, proceeded to bestir himself vocally and telephonically, with the following result, as announced by himself:

$13,500 Still Short

"The sum of $15,000 promised by the Shelby National bank; the sum of $5500 promised by J. S. Beck of the Great Northern railway from the sale of tickets among employes of the road, and the sum of $16,000 to be advanced by individuals, identity not disclosed." This would leave, if promises can be underwritten at 100 pennies on the dollar, the sum of $13,500 to be raised by the fevered promoters before another sun sinks low over the purpling sagebrush of the West.

However, nothing so crude as the clink of one round dollar against another was heard during the conference attended by Messrs. Stanton, Kearns, Johnson and Loy J. Molumby, that odd collection of sounds from this locality, and the gentlemen of the press.

It was not a particularly heartening session for Kearns, but he accepted the situation and the compromise with all due grace.

It was either a case of accept conversation or retire from the bout altogether.

The proposition, as it stands, was outlined only after several others had been broached and rejected, the first by Kearns and the second by Stanton. The latter absolutely declined to tie up his $50,000 unless he was given positive assurance that the rest of the money would be produced pronto. Kearns was then asked to take the $50,000 and patiently await the remainder from the sale of tickets. Jack merely smiled a very weary smile and looked out the window.

Mortgage Is Filed

Meantime, Johnson was placed on the grill and under direct examination admitted that not more than $125,000 in cash had been taken in to date, although some $550,000 in tickets were out under more or less of a guarantee that they would be accepted and paid for. At the same time the erstwhile genial mayor of the boom town was constrained to admit that a chattel mortgage had been lodged by a lumber company and judgment at any time might be levied, thus preventing Kearns from realizing anything from the sale of tickets in the immediate future.

It was then determined that Kearns would have to be paid today or the fight abandoned, growing out of the general belief that failure to meet all obligations at this time would cause the public to remain away from the fight in droves.

At last reports wild-eyed promoters were rushing up and down the darkened streets of Great Falls uttering strange cries while the clapboard town of Shelby ninety miles away was proceeding serenely with the business of making two dance halls grow where but one grew before.

Miss Stirling Wins Metropolitan Cup

RYE, N. Y., June 16.—Miss Alexa Stirling Friday won the women's metropolitan golf championship, defeating Mrs. Maurice Hecksher, eleven up and nine to go in the final round. Miss Stirling clinched the match in the first eighteen holes when she established a lead of seven up on her rival. The Atlantic woman was shooting par golf throughout, and her opponent could not keep the pace.

TIGERS BLANK BOSTON

BOSTON, June 16.—Johnson and Daus, twirling for the Tigers, blanked the Red Sox yesterday, and the Tigers took the long end of a 2 to 0 score. Quinn was touched for eight safeties by the victors. The Sox connected for a total of seven hits.

INDIANAPOLIS, June 16.—Entries for the national elimination balloon race to start from the Indianapolis motor speedway July 4 closed Friday with twelve gas bags entered. A number of the best known pilots in the United States have entered balloons in the event. The army and navy both have entries. The three balloons making the longest flights will represent the United States in the international race in Europe next fall.

The WORLD OVER

By FRANKLIN B. MORSE
PACIFIC SPORTS SERVICE

A number of eastern baseball writers who are following the New York American Yankee club about the circuit to report the games, express the opinion that since Babe Ruth has, more or less, unburdened his mind with the idea that he will be able to make another home run record that he has become very much more valuable to his team.

No one will be surprised at this information and it is just about what many expected. With his mind saturated with the home run idea, Ruth thought along one groove—the home run groove—to the exclusion of practically every other feature of the game. It became an obsession with him to the exclusion of everything else.

His present year's record, while it shows a fair proportion of home runs, also reveals the fact that his figures are very much better in practically all departments of the game. He has stolen more bases, he is covering his field better on the defensive and pulling down some marvelous flies, thus robbing his opponents of what appear to be certain basehits.

Not least is the fact that he is batting around .350 per cent, and, although this is something less than the average he showed while he was making his record in 1921, the fact is that he is cracking out more singles and doubles where they do a whole lot more good in the way of bringing in runs which contribute to the winning of the game.

No less a writer than Joe Vila, dean of the New York sport writers, has this to say in connection with the above: "Ruth isn't setting the world on fire with home run hitting this year, but it must be admitted that he is playing the best ball of his career in the American league. Ruth is in tiptop physical condition. Consequently he is faster than in former years, which makes it possible for him to cover ground in right field with amazing results. The big fellow's brilliant catches and long, accurate throws are helping the Yankees immeasurably on the defense, while his consistent batting, must of which is timely, is enabling the Hug-men to hold their commanding lead."

Vila goes even further, and states that he believes that, under the present conditions, Ruth is the most valuable man on the Yankee payroll.

This will be something of a surprise to many who considered Ruth simply in the light of a home run getter, who would quickly disappear in the ruck as soon as his ability to keep in the limelight through the medium of his home run clouts.

SPORTS CHATTER

By BILL UNMACK
PACIFIC SPORTS SERVICE

The attitude of some of the larger university authorities to take unto themselves the management of the finances derived from the various sports is not meeting with any particular enthusiasm from the undergraduate.

His feeling is that he is responsible for the healthy growth of the gate in the various sports, especially football, and as long as he has been able to bring his returns into the five and six figures he is also competent to continue to do so.

When athletics were barely paying for themselves and, two or three decades ago, the finances now involved were unheard of, the faculty did not pay any attention to what was doing and gave little heed whether or not sport paid for their maintenance.

Now that the big worth-while sums are coming in, the sudden interest taken by faculties is looked on as more or less of an unwarranted intrusion. It is felt that as long as an accounting is made and the money goes through proper and legitimate channels in the spending, that is as far as it is the business of the university authorities.

No attempt is made to poke into the financial affairs of the glee club, the dramatic association and other activities whose financial returns are relatively modest, and the same theory exists, according to the undergraduate, in the sports that pay big dividends.

Just how far the matter will eventually be taken out of the hands of the undergraduates remains to be seen. It is certain that there will be a considerable opposition, and, if the youngsters have the matter taken out of their hands, there is a good likelihood that they will begin to lose interest.

For some years past the boys have been handling hundreds of thousands of dollars, and no one has yet heard of any mishandling of funds. These youngsters handle sums in a football season that only few big business men have come their way. They have shown a fine business intuition, and the handling of the crowds and other details redounds to young America's credit.

As long as everything is going along so satisfactorily, there are many who believe that faculties, while keeping a supervision, might better keep to their own mess of fish to fry and tend to their educational duties. It is contended that it will be time to interfere when there is a disposition on the part of the youngsters to be lax with their money or turning it into improper uses. There is no suspicion of this and there is also the guiding hand of the graduate councils to see that the big problems have some mature minds to figure them out.

ATHLETES RALLY FOR TRACK MEET

Stars of Country's Colleges Enter at Stagg Field in National Event

CHICAGO, June 16.—Track stars from almost every section of the country, representing the flower of the college world, and several of them former Olympic champions, were to compete at Stagg field here this afternoon in the third national collegiate track and field meet. More than sixty schools, represented by some 350 athletes, were to take part.

Michigan was a slight favorite, although Illinois, Penn State, Stanford, Washington, Oregon and Nebraska all loomed dangerously.

Both Michigan and Illinois showed strength in the preliminaries. Wisconsin qualified two winners in the half-mile and Illinois placed two in the quarter. Jim Reese of Texas won his heat in the half mile.

Stanford Protests

Coach Templeton of Stanford protested against the selection of qualifiers in the third heat of the 440-yard run when the judges picked Bates of Chicago for third place. He claimed the place for Williamson of Stanford. Referee Rawson settled the dispute by announcing he would permit Williamson to run today.

California, winner of last year's meet, was not represented today, but the Pacific coast will make a strong bid for honors with several other teams, chief of which, it was conceded, is Stanford.

Hagen Promises to Again Seek Title

TROON, Scotland, June 16.—"I'll be back again," declared Walter Hagen, the 1922 British open champion, as he sailed for the United States on the Berengaria today, after a vain but courageous attempt to again win the open championship. With him sailed Gene Sarazen, Johnny Farrell, Leo Diegel and Charley Hoffner.

Hagen missed out winning by the narrow margin of one stroke, Arthur Gladstone Havers, a youthful British professional, bringing the classic back to England with a score of 295.

"I can't blame the weather," Hagen said, "but it was a factor against us. We got frightfully cold waiting to drive off. The barring of the punched club did not make any difference, but I dislike the unsportsmanlike manner of issuing the barring order at the eleventh hour. But I'll be back again."

Havers, the son of a steward of an English club, and one of the most prominent of the younger set of professionals to displace the old guard of British golfers, is the real hero of England today. He played a steady, methodical game, succeeding where such English lights as George Duncan, James Braid, Abe Mitchell, Roger Wethered, failed.

TAGGING ALL BASES

Luque permitted the Giants five hits and Cincinnati took its third in a row from the McGraw men. It was the champions' seventh loss in nine games.

Scoring two runs in the eleventh inning, the Robins held on to fourth place by beating the Cubs, 9 to 7.

Herb Pennock was invincible, the Browns made five costly errors and the Yanks won, 10 to 0.

Knocking in four runs in the third, St. Louis bettered the three run lead of the Boston Braves, added another tally in the fifth and won out, 5 to 3.

BANNER DAY FOR CAR SHIPMENTS

Studebaker Sends Out 780 Autos From Factories On May 29th

When the whistles of the mammoth Studebaker plants at South Bend and Detroit sounded on the evening of May 29 and 20,000 Studebaker employes started homeward, a new record for a single day's production and shipments had been made, for on that day 780 Studebaker cars were forwarded to Studebaker dealers throughout the country. Of the total, 189 were driven overland.

This record represents a single day's production and was achieved without permitting cars to accumulate purposely to establish a new mark. The only extra incentive involved was an effort to meet more adequately the insistent demand from every section of the country for more Studebakers, but this is a daily endeavor because of the thousands of unfilled orders on hand for immediate shipment.

While the production of 780 cars in one day establishes a record for Studebaker, the total is only a little above regular, daily shipments since the additional facilities provided by seven new Studebaker factory units completed and tooled and manned early this spring reached capacity production. Although Studebaker's present output is 15,000 cars a month, or at the rate of 180,000 cars annually, the demand is far in excess of production and additional factory facilities, begun this spring and to cost $5,000,000, are being rushed to completion.

The increasing popularity of Studebaker cars, which is a subject of common conversation even outside of the automobile industry, is attested by the yearly record of production and sales. In 1918 Studebaker sold 23,864 cars. The following year sales increased to a total of 39,356 cars. In 1920 sales mounted to 51,474 cars.

Studebaker manufactures six-cylinder cars exclusively, in three models—the Big-Six, Special-Six and the Light-Six—which are offered in twelve body types.

Nineteen twenty-one, the year of general business depression, was the biggest in Studebaker's history (up to 1922), when sales reached a total of 66,643 cars. Stated otherwise, the sales of Studebaker cars in 1921 were twenty-nine per cent greater than in 1920, notwithstanding the fact that the total number of cars sold of all makes, except Fords, was forty per cent less than 1920. Studebaker again established a new record in 1922 with the sale of 110,269 cars. This year will see still another Studebaker record established. Up to July 1 Studebaker will have produced and sold about 80,000 cars, or an increase of fifty per cent over the same period of 1922.

"There are a number of reasons for the universal popularity of Studebaker cars," according to Stephen C. Packer, local Studebaker dealer. "But chiefly:

"1. Because of their quality, durability and dependable performance in owners' use.

"2. Because by manufacturing sixes exclusively on a large scale and by building all vital parts in its own plants, Studebaker can effect economies and save the middlemen's profits, and thereby provide maximum value and quality at a low price.

"3. Because in the three models of Studebaker cars we have a car of the exact size, style and price to suit every buyer.

"4. Because with $85,000,000 of actual net assets, including $45,000,000 of plant facilities, Studebaker stands unsurpassed in ability and resources to manufacture economically and give the greatest intrinsic value possible for a given price.

"5. Because of the name Studebaker, which for seventy-one years has stood for high-grade transportation, integrity, quality, value and comfort."

DIGS GOLD NEAR GLENDALE, CLAIM

Defendant in Suit Shows Assays Running to $70 Per Ton

Recalling the days when the Forty-Niners may have journeyed along the Verdugo road diligently watching for signs of gold wealth hidden in the undeveloped soil, are reports of quartz gold, assaying $70 to the ton, found in the Sagamore tract on Verdugo road between Los Angeles and Glendale, according to testimony given yesterday before Judge J. O. Moncur of Plumosas county, sitting in Los Angeles superior court.

Outher E. Smith, who gave the testimony, is defendant in an action brought by the C. Wesley Roberts company, owner of the tract, to oust from possession of two lots.

In defense Mr. Smith offered receipts for payments he said he made on the lots to a salesman for the company. He also offered the novel defense that there was gold in paying quantities on the property and that he had filed mining claims on the lots in question.

Shows Assay Slips

To support his assertions, Mr. Smith introduced as exhibits assay slips of quartz he declared he obtained from the property and which showed the precious metal to exist in paying quantities.

The company filed two suits, one in forcible detainer and the other in ejectment, in an effort to clear the title to the property claimed by Mr. Smith.

Mr. Smith is said to have been a prospector for many years, and through his knowledge of mining claimed to have discovered the gold, which will mean great wealth for him if he can retain the property.

EAGLE ROCK

SCHOOL PROBLEM TO GET AIRING

Mass Meeting of All Civic Organization Members Will Be Called

Eagle Rock's school situation is commanding the most serious attention of the Improvement association, Chamber of Commerce, Parent-Teacher association and other organizations, in an effort to secure some relief from the present congestion, before the schools open again in the fall.

Had the plans for the bond issue materialized, the problem would have been met. Since these plans have fallen through, however, it is felt that some other steps must be taken to remedy the situation.

To this end the co-operation of every organization in the district is being enlisted. Early in July, it has been decided to hold a big mass meeting, when plans for consolidating the Rockdale, Annandale and Eagle Rock districts will be considered, together with other matters bearing on the educational problem.

Since the Parent-Teacher Association federation of Eagle Rock went out of existence following the meeting of Wednesday, June 13, with Mrs. A. G. Reily, president (owing to the fact that Parent-Teacher associations of the district are now part of the Los Angeles federation), parents are urged to join the local association nearest their homes.

At a meeting of the West End Parent-Teacher association, June 8, Mrs. Sherrill B. Osborne was elected president for the coming term. Mrs. Osborne was appointed chairman of a committee of three women named at the federation's final meeting, to take up the matter of a playground for the school children of Eagle Rock, the other two members being Mrs. Reily and Mrs. Jones.

It was decided to form an Eagle Rock Reading Circle along the lines of the Glendale Reading Circle, and, after an informal discussion of the subject it was concluded to meet each Wednesday from 11 to 2 o'clock, bringing sewing, together with lunch.

In this way, the spirit of the federation will be maintained, even though it no longer exists as an official body. And when fall comes, it is planned to expand the circle still further.

Missionary Convntion

Tonight, June 16, marks the opening of the fortieth annual convention of the Women's General Missionary society of the United Presbyterian church of North America, at the First United Presbyterian church, Ninth and Figueroa streets, Los Angeles.

The services will start at 7:30 o'clock, tonight being Foreign Mission night.

Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, it is announced, there will be three services daily, at 9 o'clock in the morning, 1 o'clock in the afternoon and 7:30 o'clock at night. Monday is Thank Offering night, and ends with a pageant in which Miss Katherine McNary of Eagle Rock has a prominent part.

The importance of the convention is indicated by the fact that 425 delegates arrived from New York this afternoon, aboard the "Convention Special," which left the eastern metropolis Monday night, June 11.

A number of Eagle Rock women will be in attendance, working on certain of the twenty-two committees organized to care for the giant assemblage of delegates from all over North America.

GARDENERS GET PRIZES FOR WORK

Vegetables and Flowers Thrive in Contest of School Children

The home gardening contest that has been interesting the boys and girls of Tujunga for the past several weeks has at last come to a close and the prizes have been awarded, as offered by the merchants of the community. The school authorities have expressed their appreciation for this co-operation which made the success of the contest possible.

Prizes were awarded as follows: Marian Baker, Summit and Palm streets, $1.00 in trade given by Gray & Gray, grocers, for the best vegetable garden grown by a girl; Edward Hodnett, north Wilson street, a Boy Scout knife given by Meyer's Brothers' Hardware Co. for the best vegetable garden grown by a boy; Tina Zitto of Michigan Avenue, $1.00 in trade given by the Tujunga Supply Company for the best flower.

Marie Chatfield of Stevens Way and Summit avenue won $1.00 in trade from the Caldwell Feed and Fuel Co., for the best vegetable garden in a plot 10x10 feet square.

There were other gardens of such excellence that honorable mention was awarded to the following: Doris Halferty, Mildred Furlong, Melba Warnick, Hazel Hageman, Leonard and Clifford Romack, Dorothy and Raymond Christie, Wilhelmina Wiedenfeller, Bonita Clarke, Maud Terese Morgan, Byron Armstrong, Sallie Fischer and Anneteen Fischer.

Water Well Brought In

The Smith Brothers have struck water in the well they are drilling on the Gem of Tujunga tract at a depth of seventy feet. The flow is not great and was found in a formation of crumbly granite. Further boring is in progress in the hope that a formation of granite will be encountered sufficiently solid to facilitate a stronger flow. Whether or not the flow will be in sufficient quantities to supply the tract is still a question.

Twenty-eight pupils of the fourth grade, Mrs. Axe's room, were the guests at a picnic given in their honor at Brookside park, Pasadena, this week by the Parent-Teacher Association. This was given as a prize for the largest representation of mothers of pupils of this room present at association meetings this year.

The day was spent playing games, swimming and enjoying the refreshments served, which included a three gallon freezer of ice cream.

The pupils were chaperoned by Mesdames Coke, Armstrong, Kindler, Alley, Frances Fisher and John Sweet, Mr. and Mrs. Fred W. Axe and Mr. DeWitt.

Honor Tujunga Boy

Loren Scoville, son of F. C. Scoville, cashier of the Tujunga Valley bank, has been elected editor of the Glendale Union High School weekly paper, "Explosions," for next year. Young Scoville led his nearest competitor by 212 votes and attributes his success largely to the campaign carried on in his behalf by fellow pupils from Tujunga, who made stump speeches and displayed placards of their candidate.

Considerable enthusiasm has been displayed this year at the grammar school in baseball and teachers and pupils alike, as well as the parent-teacher Association predict a crop of future stars of the diamond from among members of the team of the past year. Some of them have graduated and will no doubt figure in high school and later in university and college baseball.

Marshall Anderson, the captain and pitcher is one of the graduates, as also are Frank Silver and Robert Mills, right field and right shortstop, respectively.

Future material is being developed in the third grade team which has already turned in wins over the fourth and fifth grades this year.

The following are the members of the team for the year just closed: Marshall Anderson, captain and pitcher; Charles Furlong, catcher; Robert Whitsell, first base; Guy Fasoli, second base; Niles Pinson, third base; Robert Everett, left field; Edward Hodnett, center field; Frank Silver, right field; Robert Mills, right shortstop; Kenton Schultz, left shortstop and James Greer, utility.

Mrs. E. A. Miller, who taught in the Tujunga school the past year, has taken a position in the Monte Vista school at Sunland where she will teach the lower grades the coming year. Mrs. Miller will attend a special summer course in primary teaching at the University of Southern California during the vacation season.

Mrs. Louise Colby, who also taught in the school here last year, has been appointed head of the department of English at Santa Paula in the high school there.

Mrs. Maude Johnston, first grade teacher, will remain in that capacity for the next year and will take a special course in primary work at Miss Serope's school for teachers at Long Beach this summer.

COMMENT

That's All

Early Morning Musings Making a Newspaper Too Busy to Worry As the Clouds Roll By

By Gil A. Cowan

YOU have heard of words spoken from the heart, but how about a few lines written "as we are." Midnight has passed and in the early hours of today Comment is being indited on the typewriter to the tune of machinery in the composing room grinding out the type for this issue of The Glendale Evening News.

Early morning finds Glendale's business district quite peaceable, indeed. An occasional car whisks by the office window and we see a policeman patrolling the other side of the street. Perhaps the most of you were enjoying peaceful rest while the members of this paper's staff are making ready the advertising and news columns which you now are glancing upon.

The last Pacific Electric car is making its way to the terminus now and the late commuters are glad their day is done. But for the newspaper man it is one eternal joy of keeping abreast with events, as well as keeping up with the business of Glendale.

Saturday is a big day with The Glendale Evening News. The regular news section with all of its telegraph and local events are still to be produced by men who will be on the job at 6 o'clock this morning—as this is being written a few hours before.

Already the Automobile Section is ready to print, every line of type carefully culled for errors; every piece of art work in place; and everything accounted for, so far as it is humanly possibly to do so.

We are now struggling, if you please, with the development section and its great pages of advertising and descriptive matter pertaining to Glendale's growth and prosperity. It is a labor of love, we tell you, to be a chronicler of those events which are building a great city.

Of all of the problems to be met by the newspaper man, none are more interesting than the human equation. How to make the public feel satisfied with your work is an almost impossible task. Demands are made upon reporters, printers, editors and publishers; yes, advertising men, also, that few other trades and professions would have the courage to meet. But, somehow, they struggle on to the goal, happy in the accomplished and pleased that so many ARE satisfied with the production.

The Glendale Evening News is an institution in the community. Its employes are fixtures. They love to be a part of the "daily grind" and if it were not for the unpleasant things of life, we might die of stagnation.

In fact, it is that way with most newspaper offices. There is something about the smell of printer's ink which even the pressmen endure in all of its dirtiness. They like to produce a clean sheet of the very things that would make the blackest mire.

And the carrier boys who come in the afternoons to deliver their routes will come rushing down upon us later in the day with the enthusiasm and vigor and agility and amiability that make you wish you were a youngster among them. What they don't think of—well, it isn't worth thinking about.

And what they fail to think about while delivering their papers concerns a multitude (sometimes) of paid-in-advance subscribers who feel they have been singled out for a personal slight when The Evening News does not arrive. We are glad to hear the "roars" over the telephone about "missing the paper." We know that some folks are born under an unlucky star.

It is all in the game. It is the day's work which is never done.

The merchant closes his shop and goes home while the professional man appears in public for a few hours each day. They undoubtedly have their trials and tribulations. Mayhap they have time to worry over them.

For the newspaper man there is little time to fret. He just naturally explodes when things go wrong and five seconds later everybody forgets that something occurred, or didn't occur, as the case may be.

Machinery may break down, but there is always someone to fix it. Wires may be deadened by storm, but news must be obtained. A holocaust may happen, but the reporter must get the facts.

Hours mean nothing, minutes mean much in the newspaper world. There is little limit to the cost of things so long as results are obtained, yet bribery and infidelity are so rare that it is scandalous, yes traitorous.

We could ramble on for hours, enumerating the good and the bad things about the business in which we are engaged, yet nothing counts other than the few appreciative words that are spoken, the weekly pay check and the increased advertising patronage or growth in circulation.

The ready response of the merchants to The Glendale Evening News service; the ever enlarging family of readers; and the confidence accorded this paper by the community and its representatives—those are the golden notes we hope to harp upon in the hereafter. All of which we consider well said as the clouds roll by and let the moonshine in, while the stars twinkle in the heavens at our humor.

Good night!

Let Bridge Contract

It is reported that a contract for the building of the bridge over Pacoima wash has been let to DeWard and Cobham, contractors, of San Diego. The bridge is to be of two sixty-five feet spans, making 130 feet across the wash that has been the source of considerable annoyance for several years. It will be twenty-four feet wide in the roadway.

John Steven McGroarty addressed the Commercial club of Los Angeles recently at a luncheon given by the club. He spoke of one of his favorite subjects, "Early California."

Mrs. Catherine V. Washburn and Miss Doreen Tucker of 517 West Los Angeles street have returned to their home from Santa Monica.

MONTROSE

MRS. GAMMILL IS CALLED BY DEATH

Montrose Woman Mourned By Her Husband and Children

Mrs. Nora May Gammill passed away Saturday morning, June 9, 1923, at her home at 421 East Montrose avenue, Montrose, Cal., at the age of 45 years. Mrs. Gammill was born February 2, 1878, in Davis county, Missouri, and had been a resident of California for but a little more than a year, making her home at Montrose.

There are left to mourn her a husband, W. L. Gammill; two daughters, Miss Nettie L. Gammill of Montrose and Mrs. Odessa Folsom of Powel, S. D.; two sons, George D. Gammill and Charles M. Gammill, both of Montrose, and one brother, John H. Dowell of Pasadena. Funeral arrangements were by Kiefer & Eyerick, undertakers.

Dr. Lucena E. Turner is moving her offices from the La Crescenta postoffice building to more suitable quarters in the new Reinhart block on Montrose avenue, Montrose. Her many friends and patients will be glad to see her established in the new quarters, which will be accomplished within a week.

Broker Sought for Alleged Bride Fraud

SAN FRANCISCO, June 16.—Police here are searching for Frank Reese, said to be a Los Angeles insurance broker, following a complaint of his bride of eight days, Mrs. Mary Reese, that he had disappeared with $1,100 she gave him for the purchase of a bungalow. They were married June 7, when he took the money to Oakland ostensibly to secure additional funds for the purchase of the home.

One serious suggestion for peace of the world is that the international baseball league be established in Europe.

LA CRESCENTA

BANKERS GUESTS OF MRS. COLLINS

School Picnic at Brookside Park Is Enjoyed by Many Crescentans

Mrs. Mark Collins of Prospect avenue entertained the bankers and their wives of the Montrose State bank, at a bridge party. Guests present were Mr. and Mrs. Haskins, Persons, Anderson, Adkins and Hendrix. Mrs. Haskins and Mr. Persons carried off the honors with the first prize.

In spite of the inclement weather yesterday morning the school picnic was held in Brookside park as planned. Fortunately the weather man was kind enough to order Old Sol to get back on the job and the kids, large and small, had a jolly good time. There were plenty of good eats and the kiddies showed their appreciation of them by tucking them away in record time. The older people stayed over, having planned previously to have the man of the family join them and have supper at the park. Many matrons joined the youngsters in the pool and added to the fun. Barring one small accident the most perfect picnic La Crescenta has had is now but a happy memory.

A committee will meet with Mrs. Seymour Thomas at Cuddle Doon this evening and discuss the final arrangements for the garden party to be given at Cuddle Doon on Thursday, June 28. This party is to be held for the benefit of the building fund of the Episcopal church, which, it is hoped, will soon be erected.

Mrs. Adkins had as her guests at the school picnic, Mr. Adkins' aunt and cousin, Mrs. and Miss Warbuton, who are their house guests for a short time, and Mrs. Craig of Sparr Heights entertained her sister from Tuscon, Ariz.

SUNLAND

LODGE REMAINS SERVICE CENTER

County Unable to Maintain Charity Work, Reports Community Council

The Council of Community Service has withdrawn the offer made several weeks ago whereby the Service offered to turn over Monte Vista Lodge, Sunland, to the county, providing the county assume the incumbrance on the property. After investigating the attitude of the residents of Sunland through the Chamber of Commerce, the Council took the above action.

Monte Vista Lodge is a home for children, maintained by the Council of Community Service as a semi-charitable institution. The residents of Sunland had no objection to the county taking charge of the Lodge, but modified their approval with a clause to the effect that it should not be operated as a sanitarium or health center. As the county could not use it otherwise, the offer was withdrawn. The letter withdrawing the offer was signed by Mrs. J. T. Anderson, president; Mrs. C. C. Ashley, first vice-president, and Mrs. E. R. Brainerd, second vice-president of the council.

Harry Rice, a brother of Homer Rice, confectioner of Sunland, has arrived from Oklahoma and has taken a position with the Empire China company at Burbank. He is an experienced pottery worker and is also considered a good baseball pitcher and may be seen in a Tujunga Valley uniform at Sunland in the near future.

LAST CHARGE BY WALSKA PLANNED

McCormick's Prima Donna Wife Peevish Over Lack Of Support in Paris

By FREDERIC K. ABBOTT
For International News Service

PARIS, June 16.—Mme. Ganna Walska, beautiful Polish singer and wife of Harold F. McCormick, Chicago millionaire, is going to make one final effort to establish herself in American grand opera, her friends revealed today. She will leave for the United States on the liner Olympic, July 11, hopeful that her persistent efforts will achieve success upon the American concert platform and operatic stage. Her music teacher, Walter Straram, will depart for New York at the same time.

Mme. Walska, who shook musical America's dust from her feet some months ago and declared Americans were not appreciative of her voice, is now getting thoroughly disgusted with the obstacles put in the way of her career in Paris and Warsaw.

Friends who attended the big Russian festival given at Mme. Walska's palace Paris home yesterday, said that the singer is worried over postponement or cancellation of her debut in Rigoletto, at the Paris opera on June 26.

LOS ANGELES, June 16. — A note indicating a close friendship with the late Wallace Reid, motion picture star, left by Miss Evelyn Nelson, pretty 17-year-old motion picture actress, today was the only possible clue to the cause of her suicide. Her body was found in her bungalow home in De Longpre avenue, Hollywood.

The girl is believed to have taken her life last Wednesday—the last day she was seen alive—by turning on the gas. Miss Nelson left two notes. They were:

"I'm going—it's nearly over—soon to my friends—peace—my pal, Wally Reid. Farewell."

"I'm tired, oh, so tired. Life has beaten me. It is a hopeless, soulless struggle. Struggle, disappointments, sadness — what's the use? Good-bye."

THEATRES

THE GLENDALE

"Pawn Ticket 210," with Shirley Mason featured, is the photoplay showing today at the Glendale Theatre, an adaptation from the play by David Belasco and Clay M. Greene, directed by Scott Dunlap and bearing the William Fox imprint.

In addition, today's bill at the Glendale Theatre includes five acts of standard vaudeville.

Starting tomorrow (Sunday) Ralph Ince's "Success" will show for three days, with a cast including Brandon Tynan, Naomi Childers, Gay Pendleton and Dore Davidson, directed by Mr. Ince personally and released through Metro.

"Success" is a story of the stage, from a new angle.

A Simple Business Proposition—

—Home ownership, contrary to the popular idea, is not a mysterious working of Fate—it is not a magician's "stunt" to figure the means making this goal easy of access. We can demonstrate to your entire satisfaction, that it's a clean, simple, straight-from-the-shoulder business proposition. Level-headed men and women are realizing the fact daily, all over the country.

—The secret lies in clear judgment of material values, and in conservative prices, principally. Building to endure, with sound "heart" lumber; adding the finishing touches by the use of the best and most artistic millwork turns the trick in your favor without the hardship you have perhaps grown to associate with the idea. Let us prove our statement. We'll appreciate the opportunity to present this interesting information.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC SALE

RAINBOW VALLEY LOTS SELL FAST

Plan Many Novel Features For New Subdivision By Owners

The big, roomy cabin sites that are being offered for sale in Rainbow Valley are going fast, and will soon be entirely sold out, according to an announcement made by the subdividers this morning, but there are enough of them left to give a wide variety of choice to those who are seeking a place where they may establish a cottage in which to spend their vacations, or even in which to make their permanent homes.

In addition to the graded and graveled roads which are being laid out, the usual utilities, water and electricity, the purchase price of each lot will include a right to use the swimming tank, tennis courts, club house, dancing pavilion, children's playground and lounging grounds that will form one of the novel features of Rainbow Valley as soon as the work now under way has been completed.

Special arrangements have been made to take prospective purchasers or those who desire to inspect the property up there on Sunday, when automobiles will leave the corner of Brand boulevard and Colorado at 8 and 9 a. m. and at 1:30 and 4 p. m.

Rainbow Valley, it is stated, offers scenic advantages that stand without rival in the Southland, and the extremely low prices at which the large lots are being placed on sale form another irresistible attraction to homeseekers.

DANCERS OFFER LEGION PROGRAM

Local Post Stages Pleasing Entertainment in Behalf Visiting Officials

The local post of the American Legion enjoyed an agreeable surprise at their meeting last night, at the Legion hall of East Broadway, when State Adjutant Morgan Heaton, from Sacramento, dropped in with M. O. C. Hull, commander of the Long Beach post; E. S. Dobbins, past commander of the Long Beach post and first vice-commander of the Los Angeles Inter-Post Council; B. J. Morris, past adjutant of the Sacramento post and at present a member of the Pasadena post, and D. J. O'Leary, adjutant of the Pasadena post.

The local Legionnaires were fortunate in being able to provide an especially fine program for the visitors, Mrs. Nanno Woods, director of the Community Service Players, having a number of her dancing pupils present in special costume numbers.

Friend of Legion

It was Mrs. Woods who recently staged the Fun Revue for the Legion boys. She has consistently befriended the local post, and Commander Chalmer D. Day expresses the sentiment of the post when he states that they are one and all deeply grateful to her.

Among the visitors were Dr. and Mrs. C. S. Steelman, whose two daughters were among Mrs. Woods' performers.

The program was in charge of Dr. R. M. Richey, who announces for next Friday night, June 22, a talk by Professor Malcolm, head of the political science department of the University of Southern California.

Commander Day states the Legionnaires who fail to turn out for the weekly meetings are missing some fine entertainments.

A coward makes a false utterance, then runs away from its echo.

and a committee with whom he had been working had secured from the local banks, the subscriptions being $100 from the Glendale Savings Bank, $200 from the Glendale State Bank, $300 from the Pacific Southwest Trust & Savings Bank, $200 from the Security Trust & Savings Bank, and $200 from the First National Bank in Glendale, and this was followed by the announcement by Major Ed N. Radke that W. T. Gilliam, the East Broadway tent and awning manufacturer, had contributed $50 to the service fund.

Secretary E. F. Sanders reported that the City Council was 100 per cent members of the Chamber of Commerce when he turned in the subscriptions of Councilmen W. A. Horn and Asa Hall.

Major A. L. Baird next turned in his reports of money subscribed to the service fund, with $50 from the Grandview Memorial Park Association; $125 from the Glendale Lumber Company, with the same amount to come later; $500 from the Standard Oil Company, collected by J. C. Smith, one of his team captains and an employe of the company; $100 from the Litchfield Lumber Company and $250 from Frank Fox of the Fox, Woodsum Lumber Company. Some of the amounts turned in by Mr. Baird, as well as the $1,000 reported by Mr. Kitterman, were divided equally between the two divisions; and Mr. Baird also reported that several other amounts will be received from various firms at an early date, as soon as the matter can be laid before the heads of these firms.

Gift for Morris

At this point D. H. Smith, vice-president and manager of the Pacific Southwest Trust & Savings Bank, interrupted the proceedings to present S. P. Morris, the representative of the organization service department of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, who has been in charge of the campaign, the sum of $100 which had been subscribed by the members of the two divisions, who have felt that the efforts that Mr. Morris has put forth during the time he has been here and the enthusiasm that he has brought, not only to his own work but also to theirs, should be recognized in some concrete manner.

In his reply Mr. Morris, who was deeply stirred by the action of the members, declared that, while he appreciated the gift, his greatest reward came from the growing recognition by Glendale of the future that lies ahead of the city, a future that is assured by the fact that any city that can produce eighty-six men who will go out, day after day, and keep plugging on a campaign such as has been staged during this week and under the difficulties that have confronted them every day, cannot be relegated to any position anywhere behind the leaders. "What has come to Glendale," asserted Mr. Morris, "is the manifestation of the spirit that has made the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce the greatest organization of its kind in the world, in sensing the fact that it owes an immense responsibility not only to Los Angeles but to Glendale, and to every other city in the Southland, and the big feature of the campaign has been the merging of its people into a group to build Glendale through an awakened civic consciousness."

Cards of appreciation of the efforts put forth during the campaign are being mailed to every man who worked on any of the teams during the week.

Mr. Morris left yesterday for Ventura, where he will put on another campaign similar to that which has just closed here.

SCOUTS TO HOLD COURT OF HONOR

Verdugo District Council to Meet in Session at La Crescenta

The Court of Honor of the Verdugo Hills District Boy Scout Council will hold its third session Sunday night, commencing at 8 o'clock, in the La Crescenta school.

"John Steven McGroarty, author of the "Mission Play," will give one of his delightful and entertaining talks," said Capt. Wm. C. Wattles, this morning. He is chairman of the District Court of Honor and will have charge of the program, and outlines it as follows:

"Lively singing will be in charge of our official pep promoter, Francis Henry, and 'France' says he's going to get 'em all singing like they never done before.

"The Boy Scout orchestra of Troop No. 2, Glendale, will be there, of course, with two new members, which brings their number up to ten. Scout Floyd Craft, also of Troop 2, will be the official bugler.

"We have quite a large number of second and first class badges to present, in addition to several merit badges.

"This will be a big treat for the scouts and their parents, and we hope to see all the folks out prepared for an enjoyable evening."

Mrs. Daisy Bryant Hurt in Auto Crash

Mrs. Daisy Bryant, of 447 West Colorado street, is reported to have received a broken rib and other injuries when the automobile in which she was riding struck a Pickwick stage yesterday afternoon near Santa Barbara. She was en route with her husband, Henry W. Bryant, to San Francisco. Mrs. Bryant's mother, Mrs. E. E. Weider, of 318 West El Bonita avenue, has received no details about the accident.

O. M. Newby Sells Business Property

Lot on northwest corner of Lexington and Brand boulevard to Miss Stella M. Sherman of West Broadway and also a corner lot on the west side of Brand near California avenue.

The northwest corner of Brand and Doran, 100x175 feet, to H. F. Metcalf of the firm of Metcalf & Ryan of Los Angeles, and also to the same party the northwest corner lot of Central and Ivy, 100x150, partially improved.

Mrs. B. A. McCarrow of Bakersfield, has recently become associated with Mrs. O. Barnett and Mr. Newby.

Plumbing Supply Co. Gets Location Here

After a thorough search for a desirable location, the Valley Plumbing Supply Company has located in the Lane building, at the corner of South Brand boulevard and Chestnut street. The building is now under construction and will provide a modern setting for the plumbing business. The plumbing shop will be in the south storeroom and A. L. Salzman will be manager.

DOG ORDINANCE CAUSES PROTEST

Association in Mass Meeting Asks Council to Pass 'Satisfactory' Law

the medical profession is on the point of rejecting the germ theory of disease and is now about to adopt the theory that disease causes the germs.

Health Officer Speaks

The necessity of vaccinating dogs in order to prevent children bitten from acquiring hydrophobia was emphasized by Dr. C. Kaemmerling, city health officer, who was invited to address the meeting and was heckled while he was replying to questions on the subject.

Ten rabid dogs have been captured in the city of Glendale since the first of September, according to Dr. Kaemmerling. He said that thirty-one people have been bitten during that time and given the Pasteur treatment. He added that the funds of the state health department are now exhausted and that all persons bitten by dogs in the future probably will either have to pay their own expenses during the treatment or go without it.

Emphatic denial that he or anyone else connected with the present propaganda for the compulsory vaccination of dogs has anything to gain by it financially was made by Dr. Kaemmerling. He called attention to the fact that the veterinary, who administered the serum only charges 50 cents for his serices.

Loses Valuable Dogs

"It may be that when you get down to the base of the thing," remarked George W. Reeves of 633½ North Orange street, "it may be a matter of a fee more or less."

Dr. Kaemmerling retorted: "I certainly hate to think that I would stand down here before all these citizens and stand for a barefaced lie."

Probably injurious effect of vaccination upon the dogs was the subject of considerable discussion. Mrs. C. A. Dilley of 1210 Dorothy Drive stated that she had had five valuable dogs, worth about $200 apiece, vaccinated at a Los Angeles kennel recently and that four of them had died.

Dr. C. F. Tuomy of 103-A North Brand boulevard stated that he had attended a child who had been bitten by a coyote in Idaho and had developed rabies and that he never hoped to be obliged to witness such a terrible affliction.

Dr. Kaemmerling emphasized that "there is no cure for rabies when once it has started to develop in a human being."

Builders' Exchange Selects Directors

A board of directors was elected at a well-attended meeting last night of the Builders' Exchange of Glendale, in the exchange quarters, 113 North Maryland avenue.

The directors elected and their respective classification are:

Clarence O. Smith, representing general contractors; B. O. Hagen representing material dealers; W. J. Curren representing highway and cement contractors; Robert T. Philp representing plumbing and heating contractors; J. A. Light representing roofing contractors; Carroll L. Hare representing painting contractors; R. A. Crossland representing miscellaneous classification.

These are the present officers: H. C. Yale, president; Peter L. Ferry, vice-president; J. C. May, treasurer; Henry Molz, secretary-manager, will manage the destinies of the exchange until the next election in 1924, and from the results already secured much can be expected from the future.

The members voted to hold a dinner-dance at the Sunset Canyon Country club in Burbank on Friday night, June 29, and a special entertainment is to be provided.

METHODISTS ARE HOSTS AT SOCIAL

Local Talent Program Given By Church Members After Banquet

Brotherhood members of the First Methodist church were hosts last night at a banquet and social which was attended by several hundred persons of assorted ages—ranging from a baby of six months in his own "limousine" to an octogenarian.

A "local talent program" was put on following the supper. This revealed some of the hidden talent in the congregation.

Three varieties of moons were the topics of songs by the church quartet, which is composed of Dr. P. O. Lucas, Dr. C. R. Lusby, Paul Butterfield and Frank Butterfield.

"The Mental Life of Man," was the general topic of short talks given by members of the business men's class as follows:

W. D. Grace, "Socrates, the Mind of Greece."

Clayton S. McKee, "Cicero, the Mind of Rome."

Roy B. Coeur, "Edison, the Mental Wizard of America."

Wesley A. Scholm, "The Mind of Christ in the Eighteenth Century."

Following a "fake" argument between Paul Cunningham and Fred Peck, Harold Brewster was introduced and interpreted an original monologue called "Rags." This was based upon the twenty-first verse of the twenty-third Proverb: "For the drunkard and the glutton shall come to poverty and drowsiness shall clothe the man with rags."

A number of pieces played by the church orchestra were much applauded. These included "Across the Hot Sands," "Poet and Peasant," "King Lear Overture," "Arcadia Overture," "Blue" and "Falling Leaves Waltz."

The orchestra was led by C. K. Aston. It was composed of the following members: Miss Genevieve Mullivan, Vern Wilson, Ray Frisbie, Miss Leone Percey, Mrs. Birdie Stanton, R. D. Crawford, Dr. P. O. Lucas, Ronald Percey, Roper Crawford, Cecil Percey and Mabel Cunningham.

The evening closed with community singing. Words of the songs were projected upon the screen by a stereopticon machine operated by J. B. Clark.

LETTER CARRIERS PLAN FOR PICNIC

Annual Event Will Be Held July 29 at Former Verdugo Park

Members of the local branch, No. 1983, of the National Association of Letter Carriers, met on Thursday, June 14, at their headquarters in the Knights of Pythias hall, when matters of vital interest to the postal employes were taken up for discussion. The letter carriers and their families who were present enjoyed a radio concert that was given by Al Holcomb.

Carriers from Burbank, also are affiliated with the local branch, were also present and took part in the deliberations.

A. S. Wood was elected to represent the Glendale branch at the district conference of postal employes which is to be held at San Francisco on June 25, and plans were also made for the annual picnic that is to be held Sunday, July 29, at the Haddock & Nibley park, of which details will be made public later. Last year's picnic was one of the memorable events in the history of the carriers' organization, and it is hoped to make this year's picnic even more memorable.

A committee was appointed to arrange for the annual memorial services of the deceased carriers, and special reference was made to Francis Follansbee, a former carrier, whose death was announced, and in whose memory resolutions were adopted and incorporated in the minutes of the meeting. Touching eulogies of Mr. Follansbee were pronounced by C. S. Nicholson and Newton Clarke.

The banquet that was served by the ladies' auxiliary was thoroughly enjoyed by everyone present, and the address of Carrier Chalmers, who was recently transferred to Glendale from Grand Junction, Colo., was warmly received.

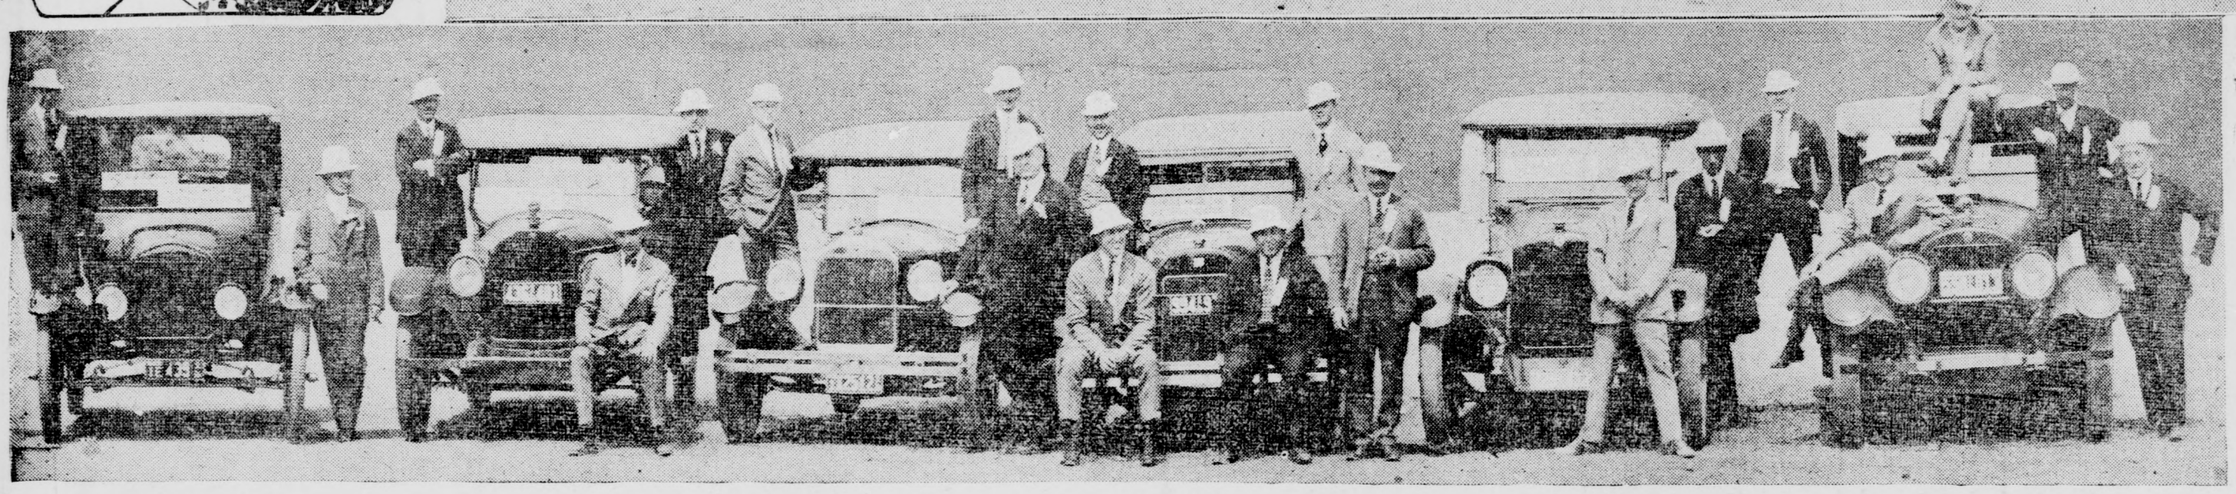
GLENDALE MOTORCAR DEALERS OBSERVE JINKS DAY AT FOREST HOME



TEST AUTOS ON ROOF OF FACTORY

Fiat Company at Lingotto Has Full-Sized Speedway Atop Plant

ROME, June 16.—A roof motor-testing track, claimed to be the first in the world, has just been opened on the roof of the Fiat company's factory at Lingotto, near Turin.

The track is not a toy one, but a real speedway of three-quarters of a mile, with scientifically banked corners, 20 feet high, at which all the cars can be run at their highest speed.

Constructed of armored concrete, with a top dressing of asphalt, the track is 1270 yards around and 70 feet wide. To make it safe in case of accident a concrete wall, five feet high, surrounds the sides, and outside the two bankings the wall rises to ten feet.

Headlight Law to Be Enforced, Claim

CAMP CURRY, Yosemite, June 16.—Strict enforcement of the state law pertaining to headlights and spotlights on motor vehicles will be carried out in the Yosemite valley this year, according to W. B. Lewis, superintendent of Yosemite national park, who states further that dangerous lights will not be tolerated in the park.

Motorists should familiarize themselves with the section of the headlight law dealing with spotlights, before touring to the Yosemite. The law carries out the following idea: "All spotlights on motor vehicles shall be attached in such a way that the centers thereof shall be not less than fifty nor more than seventy-two inches above the level surface upon which the vehicle stands. They shall be so arranged that no portion of the main beam shall rise or be capable of being raised to more than forty-two inches above the level surface of the highway 100 feet ahead."

LICENSE PLATES MUST BE CLEAR

See That They Are Not in Any Way Obscure Is Advice of Club

Motorists who drive with their state license plates obscured by mud or grease, or with the enamel cracked off so that the numerals cannot be deciphered, are going to get into trouble throughout this part of the state if they don't watch out, according to a warning just issued by the Auto Club of Southern California. It will also mean trouble if the bumper hides the license plate, or the plate is obscured by tire rack or spare tire.

Several cities have advised Auto Cluc officials that they are going to make it hard for the motorist who is careless in this respect. In one Southern California city the fine for this offense has been raised from $1 to $5, and may go higher.

Auto Men Radiate Good Cheer In Chilly Mountain Clime With Music And Fun Galore

By MERRILL D. DAVIS
Of The Evening News Staff

THAT the Glendale Motorcar Dealers' Association is a live organization and functions 100 per cent, was the concensus of opinion voiced today by the members who were fortunate enough to be numbered among those present at the second annual Jinks, held at Forest Home in the San Bernardino mountains yesterday. To President C. H. Hunter, and Ray Galvin chairman of the entertainment committee is largely due the credit for the success with which this year's Jinks was carried through. Each part of the program from start to finish was completed without a hitch, even to the detail of seeing that all meals were served on time!

Plans for the various activities of the association for the coming year, were briefly outlined by President Hunter yesterday. It is proposed to continue the drive for new members, he said, and to promote the greatest harmony among the dealers.

"It is my purpose," said Mr. Hunter, "to foster to the fullest extent the spirit of co-operation among out members to the end that we may all work together in securing the maximum business from our respective sales territory. This accomplished, and our ledgers will show profit figures on the right side of the page."

Cool, But Comfortable

Forest Home is 5200 feet above sea level and lies in the San Bernardino mountains above Redlands. It would have been difficult to choose a more ideal spot in which to hold a Jinks. Despite the chilly atmosphere Thursday evening, most of the "boys" managed to retain a comfortable temperature due to the presence of P. A. Kelley. Someone declared that this phenomena was explained by the fact that he had red—no, not red, but auburn hair.

Special entertainment for the evening was provided by Manager Frank Culver of Forest Home, and it was thoroughly enjoyed by all. William Bode assisted by Herb Henning and orchestra provided the music, "Bill" as he is familiarly called, by his friends, is sure there on the "Sax" and during his solo numbers not a foot failed to keep time with the music.

At 10 o'clock yesterday the official fun program began and started off with a rush when George Smith, former president of the association, was awarded a box of cigars for proving himself the greatest human fish extant when he remained two minutes under the surface of the icy waters of the swimming pool. This was asserted to be a record and all other contestants failed to challenge him to a second test.

Lots of Fun, We'll Say

S. C. (Steve) Packer then announced that inasmuch as he was endeavoring to reduce, he issued a challenge to William Tanner to walk to Big Bear and return before lunch. The challenge, although accepted, was postponed for the time, as it was just at this minute that W. H. Court began telling of a strange and pathetic tale, entitled "My Personal Experiences in the Jungles of Forest Home." It is hardly necessary to add that "W. H." was unanimously awarded the steam-heated cuff links.

E. B. (Buzz) Sutton deservedly won the gold medal for being the marvel of the day, and there was certainly no disagreement among the judges in making the award. What he "cheffed" nobody will tell unless Tom Smith gets talkative one of these days.

During the course of the athletic events staged Friday morning, G. A. Whitfield was very much in evidence. In fact, his presence was doubly announced by numerous and sundry cards which the amiable Whitfield passed among the boys. Soon after he was arrested and a heavy fine assessed, the court ruling that no one was there for commercial purposes, but for a good time only.

And a good time it was in every respect with the party arriving home safe, sound and sleepy at 6 o'clock last evening.

WRECK RAILROAD FOR AUTO TRAVEL

Colorado Line Is Torn Up to Make Room for Fine Scenic Highway

By JOSEPH C. COYLE
For International News Service

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., June 16.—On March 23, 1901, there was rejoicing in Cripple Creek and the Pike's Peak region. The last spike had just been driven at the gold camp, in one of the most picturesque railways, from a scenic viewpoint, and the most expensive one, in the west. In little more than a year, at a cost of four and a half million dollars, a standard gauge railroad had been driven with feverish haste through forty-five miles of rugged mountain fastness, giving the great mining camp another outlet to Colorado Springs, on the edge of the great plains.

In a short time now the sequel will be written when the first spike driven at the Springs will be pulled in the operation of junking this expensive plaything of capital. Already the steel has been removed from Cripple Creek to within a short distance of the Springs, and gangs of men are at work, transforming the roadbed into a scenic auto route. The present owner expects to have the road completed as far as Rosemont—a mountain park midway of the line—by the time the tourist season is in full swing.

Passing Regretted

There is a general feeling of regret in the Pike's Peak region at the passing of this unique railway. "The Short Line," as it is popularly known, was built primarily to handle part of the immense tonnage of coal and other supplies needed by the Cripple Creek camp in its prime and to transport ore to the reduction mills at the Springs. But, owing to the magnificent scenery it traversed, it did a large passenger business during the summer months.

Instead of following the stream levels the road was built around the rim of North and South Cheyenne canyons, carved mostly from the living granite. As it creeps around hairpin curves on the verge of dizzy precipices and across snaky trestles, spanning yawning mountain chasms, a feeling of awe is kindled in the most unresponsive breast at the grand and ever-changing examples of the handiwork of God.

Point Sublime, six miles from the Springs, where the road almost overhangs North Cheyenne canyon and the Broadmoor Hotel at a height of about a thousand feet, presents a view that is unparalleled. At one's feet are great perpendicular walls of granite, fringed with fragrant pine, spruce and balsam, and, stretching away to the east, the billowing plains, where once grazed immense herds of buffalo, undisturbed except by an occasional band of roving redmen.

What an auto road it will make!

State License Is Now In Seven Figures

SACRAMENTO, June 16.—Due to unparalleled motor vehicle registration, particularly in Southern California, the State Motor Vehicle Department, for the first time in its history, has been called upon to issue license plates bearing more than six numerals.

Plates bearing the number 1,000,000, it was announced at the office of the department, have been issued to the Automobile Club of Southern California.

Plates bearing the next highest number ever assigned to a motor vehicle for registration purposes—No. 999,999—have been issued Mrs. George R. Hilby of Sacremento, daughter of Governor Richardson.

As explained by officials of the department, the issuance of license No. 1,000,000 does not mean that 1,000,000 sets of plates for the 1923 season have been sold as yet, as some plates bearing lower numbers are still held in stock.

DRIVE CAREFULLY WHILE IN FOGS

Go Slowly Over Bridges in 'Heavy' Weather; Wipe Off Windshields

Be careful in the fog! A great many accidents have been reported recently which have taken place during foggy weather, and in order to protect the welfare of the motoring public in this part of the state, officials of the Automobile Club of Southern California warn motorists to drive carefully during foggy weather.

Although it does not seem necessary to advise the average autoist to be careful in the fog, say club officials, yet it is, because a great many motorists do not realize that fog makes the roads and bridges slippery, as well as

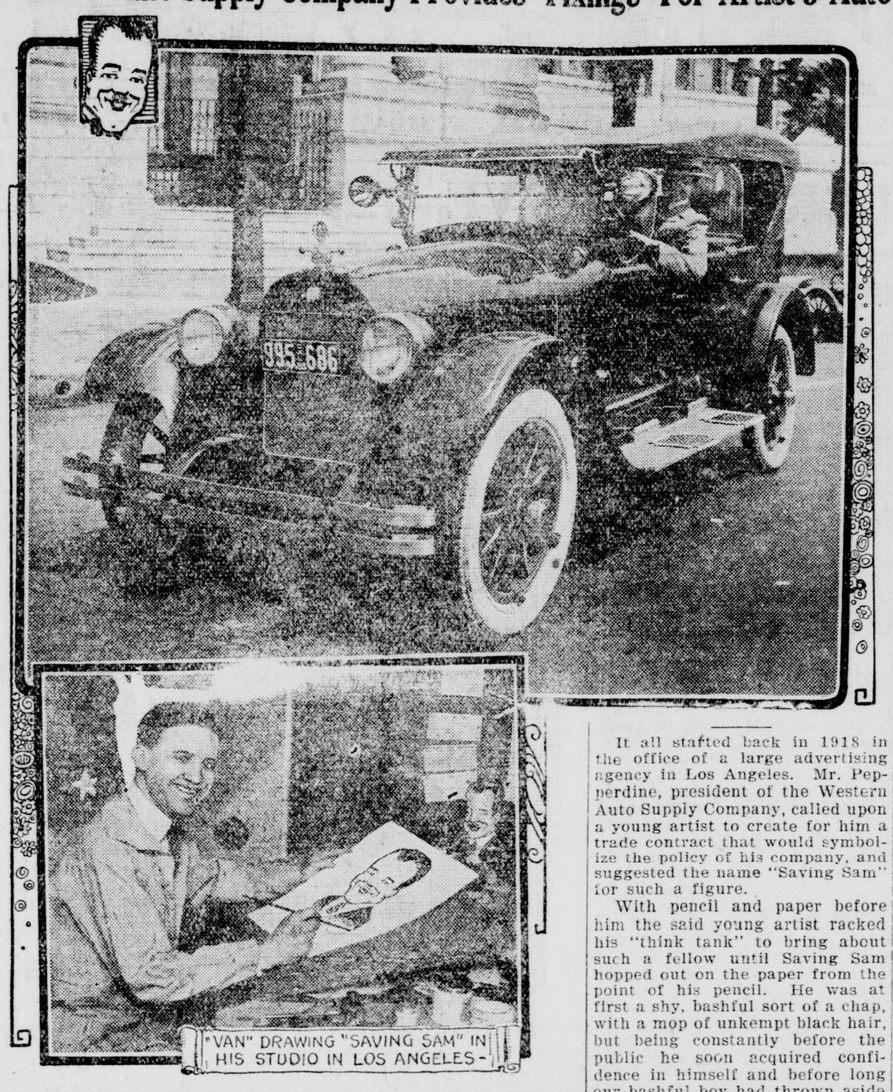
'SAVING SAM'S' PAPA DRIVES DOLLED UP BUICK CAR

Western Auto Supply Company Provides 'Fixings' For Artist's Auto



SAVING SAM'S DADDY PROUD POSSESSOR OF BUICK

Meet R. S. Van Rensselaer, better known as the "daddy" of Saving Sam, the ingenious little trade character of the Western Auto Supply Company. "Van" has recently purchased a new Buick and has t completely equpped wth fttngs from his "son's" auto supply-house. He calls it his "Western Auto Buick Sport."

It all stafted back in 1918 in the office of a large advertising agency in Los Angeles. Mr. Pepperdine, president of the Western Auto Supply Company, called upon a young artist to create for him a trade contract that would symbolize the policy of his company, and suggested the name "Saving Sam" for such a figure.

With pencil and paper before him the said young artist racked his "think tank" to bring about such a fellow until Saving Sam hopped out on the paper from the point of his pencil. He was at first a shy, bashful sort of a chap, with a mop of unkempt black hair, but being constantly before the public he soon acquired confidence in himself and before long our bashful boy had thrown aside his timid ways. He began combing his hair, took on the air of a successful business man and for no reason at all grew a mustache.

"With a smile on his face, one hand in his pocket to suggest saving, the other extended to render service to the motorist, he is an outstanding trade character and is well known throughout the west to the man with the automobile. Seldom do you pick up an automotive magazine or automobile section of a newspaper without seeing "Sam's" beaming countenance shining forth from one of the pages. Billboards and highway markers carry the same message, always the same sunny smile that seems to invite you to smile with him.

Last year Mr. Pepperdine had a replica of Saving Sam turned out in silver and presented it to the store manager making the greatest percantage of increase in his sales record during the year.

STRAIGHT EIGHT PACKARD SHOWN

New Model of Famous Car Marks Big Advance in Auto Building

The introduction of the new Straight Eight-Packard, that has been delivered at the Los Angeles agency and that is now on display, marks one of the real advances in the automobile industry and introduces a model to the motoring public that is destined to take front rank among the leaders in the fine car world, according to W. H. Daniel, manager of the Dixie Packard company, East Broadway, who returned yesterday from a visit to the Los Angeles agency where he inspected the new arrival.

The mechanical excellence of the new model, marking a distinct innovation in engine construction, is in every respect up to the Packard standard, and the new Straight Eight is creating a furore among motorists all over the country who know and appreciate excellence in automobiles.

During the past week Mr. Daniel sold cars to A. W. Maxwell, 702 East 10th street, Burbank; R. F. Maclean, a newcomer to Glendale who bought a car immediately on his arrival; and George W. Loomis, 441 Palm drive, all of whom are showing off their new automobiles with the pride that inevitably accompanies the ownership of a Packard.

When Foggy Weather Use Care While Driving

rain, or even worse. Also, it is difficult to see a car which may be standing at the side of the road, as red tail-lights are not visible for any great distance during "heavy" weather.

Headlights are also deceiving when approaching through the fog, as it is almost impossible to judge distance when the lights are made dim by the moisture.

It is suggested that motorists wipe off their windshields frequently and keep well over to the right-hand side of the road when this atmospheric condition maintains.

When approaching a bridge in foggy weather, it is advisable to go slowly, as bridge surfaces accumulate the moisture and are very slippery at this time. Summer fogs are not infrequent hereabouts.

NEW ENDURANCE MARK

Archie Rife of Sacramento recently set what was said to be a world's record for endurance motorcycling when he completed seventy-seven hours of riding. He was finally stopped by the police.

Automobiles in Switzerland are forbidden to travel at a greater speed than between eighteen and nineteen miles an hour on Sundays.

MAY IS BIGGEST MONTH FOR NASH

All Previous Records Are Beaten by Production, Sutton Learns

May was the biggest month in the history of the Nash Motors company. Shipments for the month exceeded those of April, the previous record month, by 582 cars and eclipsed the record of May, 1922, by 1073 cars. In other words, Nash Motors shipped in May of this year 6208 passenger cars as against 5125 cars in the same month last year, according to a letter received by E. B. Sutton, manager of the Glendale Nash Sales, South Maryland.

"While we actually shipped 6,208 cars in May," writes E. H. McCarty, general sales manager of the Nash Motors company, "we had on our books orders for more than 8000 cars for May delivery. There apparently is no let-up in sight for June. Nash dealers throughout the country have practically no cars in stock and most of them are arranging deliveries to buyers in the sequence that orders were received.

"Because of the backward weather of the spring months June is likely to be even a heavier selling month than usual, many buyers, because of the recent uncomfortable weather, having postponed their purchase of a new car Practically ever since the new Nash line of cars was shown to the public at the various automobile shows, the Nash factory has been in an oversold condition with the result that since March 1, we have never been able to fill all of the orders received by the factory. Production, of course, has been increased, but on a very careful basis, safeguarding the quality of Nash cars."

AUTOMOBILE EXPORTS

Twenty thousand, six hundred and ninety motor vehicles were exported in March from the United States and American branches in Canada. The highest previous monthly record was in May of 1920, when shipments amounted to 19,770.

SPENT FOR CARS

In the last fifteen years the United States has spent between $15,000,000,000 and $20,000,000,000 for passenger automobiles and trucks. More than $6,000,000,000 have been expended for improved roads.

GOOD SUGGESTION

When opening the doors of a car, do it from the inside if possible. This saves wearing off the nickel from the outside door handles and avoids scratching the body of the car.

BENT AXLE TROUBLE

A bent front axle, no matter how slight, not only causes poor steering, but will soon prematurely wear the tread of both front tires.

SETS RECORD ON ARROWHEAD TRIP

Chevrolet Covers 82 Miles in 3 Hours, 15 Minutes Elapsed Time

Making the run from Glendale to Arrowhead Lake last Sunday in the elapsed time of three hours and fifteen minutes, a distance of eighty-two miles, is the record that was made by C. L. Smith, Chevrolet distributor, Orange and Colrado, in his Chevrolet coupe, when he was going to spend the weekend fishing at his cottage on Lake Arrowhead. Some of the run, especially the climb up to the lake, was made over grades that ran as high as twenty per cent, but in all that time the motor never heated, nor on the round trip of 164 miles was Mr. Smith ever under the necessity to putting in more gasoline, water or oil than when he started. The entire trip, going and coming, was made on eight gallons of gasoline, an average of twenty and one-half miles to the gallon, which, Mr. Smith claims, shows an economy of operation that few, if any, cars can equal.

One point on which Mr. Smith lays stress in telling of his trip, on whjch he was accompanied by Mrs. Smith, was that, at no time on the entire run, did he break the speed laws or exceed a speed of thirty-five miles an hour, and he states that he stands ready to duplicate the performance for any prospective purchaser of a Chevrolet who desires to be convinced of the truth of his statement. No stops were made on the grade up to the lake, and the Chevrolet passed many bigger and more expensive cars on the long climb, but not a single car was able to pass the coupe.

The performance of the car is said by Mr. Smith to be more remarkable in view of the fact that it was a closed model, heavier than other models, and that it carried a heavy load of fishing tackle and other equipment needed in the stay at the cottage at the lake.

The fishing at the lake was excellent, both Mr. and Mrs. Smith bringing back the limit, and enough fish were secured to permit Mr. Smith to furnish a trout supper to thirty-five members of the Knight Templar Commandry at their Monday night session in the Masonic lodge, a treat that was highly enjoyed by the members of the lodge.

Wire-bound boxes are supplanting the nailed wooden packing cases in the shipment of goods, says one investigator.

BUICK SMASHES SALES RECORDS

Tanner & Hall Gratified by Continuous Confidence in Popular Car

Buick smashes its own sales record month by month here. Tanner & Hall, 237 South Brand boulevard, Glendale, representatives of this most popular line of motor cars, today announce that sales in May have outdistanced those of May a year ago, while new records have been set in January, February, March and April this year.

It is a source of gratification, both to dealers and salesmen, to see this vote of confidence by the buying public when the Buick sells itself to such an extent, according to W. A. Tanner, senior member of the firm.

Perhaps it is the fifteen different models from which selections may be made that gives the Buick this big advantage, he opines. Perhaps it is the consistent performance of the car. And, as a final consideration, the combination of beauty and economy may have a great deal to do with the sales record. Certainly, there is something convincing about the Buick.

Buick Owners Boosters

Talk to a Buick owner and you are satisfied it is a car of service. You could listen to a recital of more than 200 features and refinements and mechanical advantages built into the Buick car and still the whole story would be untold.

"The satisfaction of driving a dependable car," says R. L. Galvin of the sales force, "is the larger part of the Buick's selling talk. We can tell the public a great deal regarding mechanical merits, but if they are not acquainted with it, the work is lost.

"What we want to do is demonstrate—let the people drive the machine and talk with other Buick drivers and appreciate the difference. That is why we invite every prospective car buyer to come into our show rooms and give us the consideration of proving the statement that 'When better cars are built, Buick will build them.'"

Try Out Brakes to Prevent Accidents

Try out the brakes every time you take the car out. When there is room ahead, speed up with the accelerator and apply the foot brakes to see if the car comes evenly to a stop. Do this several times and then try the emergency brake. Once a week jack up the rear wheels, the emergency brake up fairly strong and try both wheels by hand. If one moves more freely than the other it must be set up more. Have someone hold the foot brake for you or block it by means of a jack.

POOR LUBRICATION

The conditions that most commonly cause poor lubrication are: Insufficient oil in the crankcase, broken or clogged feed lines, clogged oil screens and defective pumps or drives.

FACTORY CHIEFS COMMEND CLARK

Service Department Given Special Praise by Maxwell Heads

Officials of the Maxwell Motor Company warmly praised the work of the Glendale Motor Car Company, 124 West Colorado street, on the occasion of the recent visit to the factory of Lyman P. Clark, the local distributor of the Maxwell and Chalmers cars, and the report of the service facilities of the Glendale firm won special commendation from the heads of the organization, who had been advised by the factory service manager of the efficiency that is maintained here. Mr. Clark returned to Glendale on Monday after spending several days inspecting the Maxwell and Chalmers plants as the guest of the officials of the company.

One of the departments of the factory that was of particular interest to Mr. Clark was the assembling plant, where cars are assembled at the rate of one every thirty minutes, from the minute the first step in the process is taken until the final moment when the car is run off the assembly rack with its motor running and ready for its road test, a thing to which every Maxwell car has to submit before it is passed by the manufacturers. This rapid assembly of the cars is a part of the increased production program that has been put in force at the factory to meet the growing demand for the Maxwell cars, and one of the factors that enables both the Maxwell and Chalmers factories to place their cars on the market at the prices they are doing today is that nearly every part that enters into the composition of both cars is made in the factories and thus permits the cars to be built at a marked reduction in manufacturing cost.

"If I could take every prospective purchaser of an automobile to the Maxwell and Chalmers factories," declared Mr. Clark in speaking of his trip, "and show them the thoroughness with which every car is turned out, the excellence of the materials that go into its building, and the sound construction that makes these cars the splendid machines they are, I know that I could make every one of them a Maxwell or a Chalmers owner, for these things form the most convincing argument that any buyer could possibly demand in ascertaining the merits of the car he wants to buy."

Mr. Clark went to Atlanta, Ga., to attend the international conference of the Kiwanis club, at which 1,014 clubs were represented, and after spending from May 28 to 31 there, in company with District Governor W. R. Brown of Glendale, enjoying the various features of the convention, he went on to Washington, Philadelphia, Buffalo, N. Y., and Detroit.

FORD'S OUTPUT NEAR 5000 DAY

Dealers Call for 194,750 Cars, Trucks, Tractors This Month

Ford dealers in the United States have asked for a total of 194,750 Ford cars, trucks and tractors to meet their June requirements, says a statement issued by the Ford Motor company, Detroit, Mich., which was received today by Jesse E. Smith, authorized dealer in Glendale.

As a result, the estimated output for June has been boosted to 140,000, which is an increase of 10,000 over that of last month, and, of course, will set up a new high record, in spite of the fact that the May output will show a substantial increae over the previous highest month.

Ford sales have been constantly increasing since the first of the year, the demand growing during the past two months faster than it has been possible to increase production.

Monday, May 16, brought forth a new record of cars built for one day, the figures reaching 4878 at the close of the day's work. This was an increase of 16 over May 15, when the previous high mark was established.

On May 18, the six millionth Ford motor was assembled. No. 5,000,000 came off the line May 28, 1921.

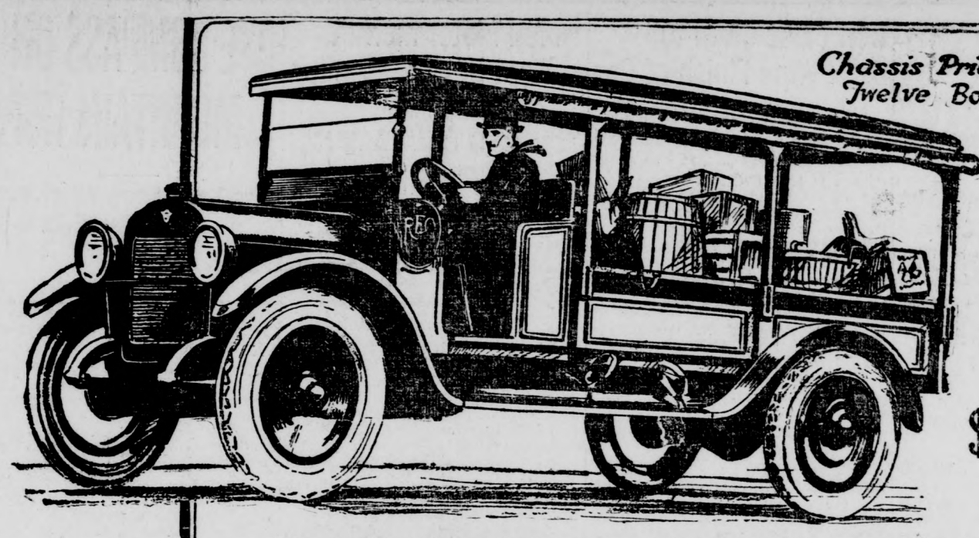
Ford officials state that every attempt is being made to build a sufficient number of cars and trucks to fill the retail requirements of their 8000 dealers.

New Game Laws Not Effective Till August

After every session of the legislature, hunters and anglers find themselves in serious trouble owing to the fact that they have not secured correct information regarding the new laws passed. New fish and game laws, passed by the legislature and signed by the governor, do not go into effect until ninety days after the close of the legislature. As a consequence, present laws will be enforced all during the summer.

The fact that the limit on trout has been raised to thirty-five, will not in the least affect conditions during the greater part of this summer, when the old-limit law is still in effect. Anglers will be able to take thirty-five trout only after August 17.

In the past, much misunderstanding has been due to the custom followed by sporting-goods houses of issuing cards, giving an abstract of the game laws. These are often incorrect because prematurely issued. In planning such game cards, every sporting-goods house should obtain from the state Fish and Game Commission an official tabulation of the new laws placed upon the statute books. This will protect their customers from making disastrous mistakes and will aid the commission in law enforcement.



SPEED WAGON

REO

MANUFACTURED Not Assembled!

THE Speed Wagon is a Reo creation, and every major unit is a Reo product—designed and manufactured in the big Reo shops.

Engine, clutch, transmission, universal joints, propeller shaft, rear axle,—the whole power line,— was planned as an entirety. Every unit functions harmoniously with its neighbor.

And the same practice, and the same advantages, apply to every other part of the chassis. Springs, frame, and each unit is planned and produced solely for Speed Wagon service.

The inner-frame mounting of power units, the amidship location of transmission, the equitable balancing of weight over the four wheels,—these are unusual practices, and mean a lot to the truck owner. Reo can manufacture trucks this way because all the facilities are self-contained.

Physically and financially, Reo is solidly established. No Speed Wagon or other Reo product, will ever be orphaned!

The Speed Wagon represents the lowest cost of highway freightage, regardless of the price or capacity of the vehicle with which it may be compared. Its capacity is from 500 to 2500 pounds. More than 75,000 are in service.

LATEST HUDSON SEDAN IS HERE

Five Passenger Car With Velour Upholstery at Kelley Motor Co.

Glendale people now have the pleasure of seeing the first new model of the five-passenger Hudson sedan, the second one of its kind in Southern California. It is on display at the Kelley Motor Company, 230 North Brand boulevard.

Not only is the five-passenger sedan equally as desirable as the larger type of coaches turned out by Hudson, but it is more economical. The coaches in all models now are coming upholstered in brown velour, a decided refinement which has attracted many shoppers' attention.

To say that the newest Hudson is a classy car simply infers that which is to be found in the line which Mr. Kelley represents. And the fact that improvements are being made in the coach work only, indicates the stability and quality of the power plant.

An excellent sales demand for Hudson and Essex automobiles in this vicinity makes it necessary for Mr. Kelley to add two salesmen to his force. He is more than pleased with the recognition accorded these popular cars in Glendale.

THE COMMUTATOR

It is a good plan to clean the comutator when it becomes gummed. Crocus cloth can be used to advantage if the copper surfaces are thoroughly wiped with the cloth. Never use emery or sandpaper.

CORPORATION AUTOS

Approximately 600,000 passenger automobiles are owned by corporations in the United States. Most of these vehicles are for the use of city salesmen, superintendents and inspectors.

A VICTORY FOR AMERICAN MOTORISTS

The Crude Rubber Monopoly weakened when it came into contact with aroused public sentiment. The press of the country today reflects the determination of the American motorist that tire prices shall stay at a reasonable level—and that America must produce its own rubber.

Firestone

CUTS TIRE PRICES

EFFECTIVE JUNE 11

We announce a 10% reduction in tires and tubes effective June 11th. The lowered cost of crude rubber and the special Firestone manufacturing and distribution advantages make this possible.

Firestone factories are organized on a basis of large volume and effective production. Costs are down but quality is at its peak. Stockholder workmen are daily building many thousands of Gum-Dipped Cords—the best tire Firestone ever produced and, we believe, the leader on the market today.

Firestone Cords took the first four places and eight of the ten money positions in the Indianapolis Sweepstakes, May 30th, without a single tire failure.

Firestone Gum-Dipped Cords have set new standards in mileage, traction, comfort and safety. Car owners have expressed their approval of the extra value in Firestone Gum-Dipped Cords by increasing their purchases 194% in the past six months.

We have replaced many expensive branches with warehouses. We now have 108 distributing points which are delivering Firestone tires to the consumer at the lowest cost in our history.

OLDSMOBILE 4'S IN BIG DEMAND

C. H. Hunter Tells of Folks Waiting to Get Car Model 43-A

A waiting list for Oldsmobile fours!

This is the announcement of C. H. Hunter of 214 West Broadway, Glendale dealer for the Olds and Columbia cars.

In discussing the demand for this particular car, he traced its history and popularity in the following sketchy manner:

"The first series of the Oldsmobile 43 four was introduced to the public in 1915 and was carried through the season of 1916. About that time the trend was toward sixes, and the Olds factory discontinued the four.

"But the little car had proved its worth and through the war period there was such an insistent demand for the Oldsmobile Four that the factory started the model 43-A about two and one-half years ago.

"This car, like its predecessor, has shown such good qualities and wonderful power that it is now difficult to supply the demand. When the buyer will wait for a certain model it is a pretty sure sign the car is a success.

"That is why we are proud of the waiting list for the Oldsmobile four."

Don't Use Cloth to Wipe Finish of Car

Never use a cloth to wipe dust off the fine finish of the car. This dust is a fine grit, and the cloth grinds it into the surface so that it soon becomes dull. Use a fine hair duster if you are in a hurry, but the best way to remove dust is to flow water over it. The first flow softens the dust and mud, and the second flow removes most of it. Then a solution of a high-grade linseed oil soap is used to finish the cleaning, the whole surface being thoroughly rinsed before drying with a chamois cloth.

Noted Motor Men to Meet In L. A. Monday

Los Angeles will be signally honored on June 18 by the gathering here of some of the leading lights in the automotive industry for a business session with the members of the Los Angeles Motor Car Dealers' Association. Nationally prominent figures in the industry will be in attendance, including F. W. A. Vesper of St. Louis, president of the Vesper-Buick Company and president of the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce; Charles E. Gambill, president of the Gambill Motor Car Company, Marmon and Hupmobile distributors of Chicago; J. S. Knox of Cleveland, specialist in automobile salesmanship; Percy E. Chamberlain, nationally known service expert and father of the flat rate system of automobile repairing, and C. A. Vane, general manager of the National Automobile Dealers' Association.

Vane has arrived in Los Angeles to complete arrangements for the meeting with Manager Burt Roberts of the local organization and the entertainment committee of the association, consisting of P. H. Greer, chairman; L. R. Wadsworth, Robert S. Breyer and Winslow B. Felix, together with Harry A. Lord, president of the Los Angeles Motor Car Dealers' Association.

Roberts stated that the June 18 meeting would be held at the Elite Caterers' hall, 633 South Flower street, beginning at 9:45 a. m., and expressed the belief that several hundred dealers, salesmen and service men from all parts of Southern California will be in attendance.

INSPECTION OF CARS

In this era of high production, owners of new automobiles are advised to inspect the car carefully before driving it onto the highway. Loose nuts and bolts are common when workmen are being hurried by production demands.

ELIMINATE DOOR RATTLE

Small pieces of tin, wedged under the door bumpers, will eliminate the rattle of doors. This is equivalent to inserting new rubber bumpers, only it requires less trouble.

USE COMPASS ON MOUNTAIN TRIPS

Also Take Along All of Your Common Sense, Club Suggests

As the time draws near for you to pack up the little tent and camp stove, and the baby's bottles for that grand vacation trip up into the mountains, there are certain matters dealing with the tourist's conduct which should be considered, points out the touring bureau of the Automobile Club of Southern California.

Reports have been frequent this spring of campers becoming lost in the hills and mountains, and when found are nearly exhausted from starvation and fright. One thing you should take with you on this trip is a compass, and another thing is a knowledge of how to use it. But when you pack up the compass you should also pack up a large portion of common sense and determination not to become panic stricken.

"Panic" is a very bad traveling companion for a vacation party, say the auto club authorities. If by chance you should become lost in the gullies or canyons of the mountains, do not become panic stricken, but keep calm, refer to your compass, know the relation of the North Star to your camp, and then take it calmly and rest assured that your friends are looking for you and are just as anxious to find you as you are to be found.

Use Greatest Care

Reports have been received by supervisors of the national forest reserves to the effect that motoring parties and hikers who are familiar with their surroundings have become lost almost at their own back doors, and so familiarity with your mountains is not always a preventative of panic.

It is quite likely that if you would stop to think, when you become confused with your surroundings, you would plunge farther into the wilderness by heedless fright. Only those who have acquired that second sense of direction which is the result of long experience with the make-up of the mountains and the peculiarity of the wilderness, and who have developed climbing muscles and higher altitude hearts and long-distance eyesight, should venture too far from the beaten tracks in the forest reserves.

ACTIVITY SHOWN IN MOTOR TRADE

Demand for Cars Exceeds Output As Makers Speed Production

DETROIT, Mich., June 16.—The thousands of automobiles and trucks leaving this city daily by rail and drive away offer direct proof that the automobile industry is keeping up with the revival in nearly all other lines of business.

With the demand for cars continuing far in excess of the output, manufacturers are resorting to boat shipments to get consignments shipped and are concentrating on intensive efforts to speed up and increase production. Generally, however, they are not making the economic mistake of factory expansion as a gamble on business in the somewhat far distant future.

But the business of the past two or three months has been so enormous that manufacturers, fighting to get on even terms with the demand, believe it will continue so for several months to come.

New Records Seen

The year 1923, leaders of the industry believe, will result in several new records, and it is not unlikely that the annual seasonal decline may become lost in the rush this year. If it comes at all, it will come in June, whereas in past years, it has materialized considerably earlier. Schedules thus far arranged for June seem to take little cognizance of assertions that this decline, which would be slight at any rate, is about due.

Manufacturers of automobiles blame the automobile shortage on a shortage of body production and body manufacturers blame their limitations to glass. The closed car demand has been so great that two new body concerns have been organized here this month. They will produce closed car bodies exclusively. Meanwhile, there is a promise of a third new concern in the field within the next fortnight.

The demand for closed cars is growing at a startling rate. It is declared that eight out of every ten buyers favor a closed car good for all kinds of weather.

Manufacturers, caught flat-footed in the spring of 1922, when an avalanche of closed car orders rushed in, were determined this year that there should be no repetition and made preparations for a 1923 onslaught of similar proportions, but the demand for this kind of car has exceeded all expectations again, with the result that the automobile manufacturers are in a hole almost as deep as that of last year.

BATTERY OVERCHARGED

To reduce an overcharged battery, all the lights should be burned for about two hours while the car is standing idle and have the output of the generator reduced.

WRECK RAILROAD FOR AUTO TRAVEL

From the Springs to Summit, a distance of twenty-one miles, there are eight tunnels, the road climbing at a uniform grade of 3.56 per cent. At one point three miles are traversed to go a distance of 1,600 feet, passing through three tunnels. Two of these are through the same mountain spur, the track entering one and emerging from the other on the same side of the ridge, and only a short distance apart.

A solid, smooth slope of granite, a thousand feet from top to bottom, through which the road was cut, is called the Devil's Slide.

At Clyde Station, fantastic rock formations rise hundreds of feet in the air, and at the base of one of these is a perpetual ice cave, fed by a mountain stream.

Highest Electric Road

Eighteen miles of the highest electric railway in the world, connecting with the steam line at Victor, join the different towns of the Cripple Creek district.

Quite as interesting as the railroad itself is the man who bid it in when declining production in the district brought about its sale at auction. Certain capitalists of Colorado Springs expected to have full play at the sale and were thunderstruck when a husky, middle-aged, strong-featured man, in a well-worn overcoat, butted in. "What does that laborer mean bidding on a railroad?" they asked "Why, he doesn't look as if he had money enough to flag a shoestring peddler."

"Why," spoke up a newspaperman, "don't you know him? That is W. D. Corley, the coal dealer."

Another bid or two and Corley's competitors quit. While they were not familiar with his features they had been up against his business acumen and knew his determined nature.

Corley started life picking cotton on a Louisiana plantation. Coming to the Springs a few years ago, he has acquired two coal mines here, five thousand acres of land, the Short Line Railway—the equipment of which report has it he expects to use in building a road to one of his mines—and another mine at Canon City.

Corley is personally directing the dismantling of the Short Line, and anyone who does not know him would be puzzled to single him out from among his workmen.

AUTO ROUTS CAMEL

The automobile has at last supplanted the camel as a mail and passenger carrier between Zella and Djibouti, over the hot sands of Arabia. The car covers the distance of about sixty kilometers in four hours, while the camel caravan took a whole day for the trip.

TESTING MATERIAL

The Bureau of Public Roads in Washington, D. C., operates a machine for testing materials to be used in building roads. This device tests rock for toughness or resistance to impact.

Would Deny Licenses To Incapable Drivers

NEW YORK, June 16.—A menace worse than the most deadly epidemic of disease is riding the streets of New York unchecked, although an easy solution is at hand, according to Dr. John W. Perilli, trustee of the Bellevue and Allied hospitals.

Thousands of men and women, hopelessly incapable of handling automobiles in emergencies, sit at the steering wheels of cars which threaten the lives of pedestrians and annually take a ghastly toll, he said. Addicts, inflamed by drugs, men and women with explosive nervous troubles, people who are color blind or unable to co-ordinate their muscles to the bidding of their minds, adults whose minds are dull and incapable of reacting promptly to the demand of danger and persons nearly crippled by disease, are allowed to handle dangerous vehicles in crowded city streets, he continued.

"But the solution of the problem is simple," Dr. Perilli asserted.

"Appoint in each borough a board of examiners, who will put each applicant through his paces.

"Then have him appear before a medical board. Here, if it is found he does not co-ordinate; if his eyesight is bad or if he is color blind, or if he has suffered from any disease that may make him lose control of himself in an emergency, deny him a license."

If luck would turn into certainty it would upset all established standards.

THE STUDEBAKER LIGHT-SIX SEDAN

Where Quality Counts Above Everything Else

Quality is more important in an enclosed car than in most any other product in daily use.

Regardless of price, it is not economy to buy a makeshift job in which the quality is skimped and cheapened at every turn. Paint, imitation leather and fibre board too often cover serious structural defects and cotton-and-wool trimming cloths are short lived. The chances are that the buyer will more than pay the difference later—in higher upkeep cost, frequent repairs and excessive depreciation.

The price of the Light-Six Sedan is the lowest at which it is possible to obtain a substantial, high grade hardwood and steel body, upholstered in mohair, in combination with a chassis of proved dependability and performance.

Studebaker's South Bend plants build more high quality closed bodies than those of any other automobile manufacturer and consequently overhead costs are reduced and the price to the customer is low.

The in-built quality of the Light-Six Sedan is evident the moment one gets behind the wheel, and is appreciated far more after twenty-five or thirty thousand miles of service.

The Light-Six Sedan, with its sturdy four-door body, its improved L-head motor, and the excellence of its chassis, combines distinction of appearance with a reliability of performance, a degree of comfort and economy of operation unknown in any other car at anywhere near its price.

Nature's Clearing House

TODAY'S SHORT STORY BY Ad Schuster

Phil West totalled the reports from the various banks, then picked up the telephone receiver.

"Clearings for today," he repeated, cutting off the syllables sharply that there might be no mistake, "are $2,224,416." Then he repeated the figure and waited for the girl at the other end to read them back.

"O. K., thank you," the girl said and the ceremony was over. The bank clerk looked out of the window on a world that was warming under the spring sun. For three years now he had been telephoning the clearings every morning, listing the exchanges and pawing through the note files. In the evenings he went alone to a show or to his room, where he sought excitement in highly colored tales of adventure. What he needed, he decided, was a vacation.

One day the girl who received the figures responded "Correct!" and hung up the receiver and he knew there had been a change. "Maybe," he said, "she has gone on her vacation." In a week he would start on his.

During this week Phil West learned how much three words from a girl may mean in a narrow life. There was something so cheerful and friendly in the voice which had thanked him each morning he had learned to depend upon it, unconsciously, to cheer him up and start the day with a smile. Now there was a girl who snapped "Correct" just as a school teacher had done in the old days. The contrast set him to thinking, to drawing a mental picture of the cheerful girl.

"I guess," he said as he packed his suitcase, "I need a vacation more than I had thought. Imagine mooning over a girl you have never seen!"

Phil went to the mountains where he could look down on a rushing river, fish and climb. A young man who had never been able to form friends in a city so much larger and different from his home town found the loneliness in the hills more acceptable than any place else.

After having seen a sunrise from the bald top of a mountain, the bank clerk tied his pack to his shoulders and started down the trail. By noon he would reach the river. Into a forest the path ran, hard-packed and cool, and the young man swung into a dog-trot which carried him around a sharp curve and into full view of a tense little drama.

In the middle of the trail, like a coil of rope, was a rattlesnake disputing the passage of a young woman garbed in hiking clothes. Phil stopped and looked over the snake at the girl.

"He has stopped me," she explained, "and I do want to go on to the top." She looked up the steep cliff and down from the shelf of the trail to a fan of loose rock and earth. "I was just wondering which way around would be easier."

To Phil West, rattlesnakes had always been things to be avoided, and yet, plainly, this girl expected him to solve her difficulties. He looked about uneasily.

"That stick behind you," she suggested. "Perhaps you could kill it with that."

With the girl regarding him admiringly, Phil killed the snake and threw it down the slope. The girl sat down on a rock. "I don't suppose," she said, "you will understand my feeling a bit scared. You see, I'm not used to the mountains."

For an hour they sat confessing their love for the out-of-doors and their ignorance of what is there.

"All I do," said Phil, gesturing into the spaces as if to draw a contrast, "is bend over books, add up columns of figures, then go home to a two-by-four room and read until I fall asleep. Imagine!"

Down below the shadows were poking across the valley. It was the last day of Phil's vacation. The old loneliness came back.

"Every day," he said, "at 10 o'clock sharp I go to the telephone and say, 'Hello, the clearings for today are $2,324,567,' or whatever it is. . . . In two days I'll be doing it again."

"Did you say $2,324,567?" the girl was smiling. "O. K., thank you!" It was the cheerful voice. Phil stood up and held out his hand.

"You!"

"You!"

The two walked down the trail and there was an end to loneliness.

WOMAN IS HELD FOR FORGERY

Young Mother Of Three Children In Prison

MRS. HELEN M. R. McALPINE

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., June 13.—Prison doors have closed upon Mrs. Helen McAlpine, twenty-six and pretty, leaving her three small children without a mother's care.

Mrs. McAlpine was sentenced to ten years' imprisonment on a forgery charge.

Three years ago Mrs. McAlpine was the wife of an official of one of the leading banks here and the mother of a child.

But she deserted her husband to cast her lot with a laborer. The weeks passed into months and soon she found that the wages of the laborer with whom she had gone to live were considerably less than a banker's salary.

A child was born. And then another. But wages didn't increase.

In court, Mrs. McAlpine defended herself by declaring that she was forced to write the phoney checks for amounts aggregating $20,000 by messages from the spirit world.

The court decided that her mother-in-law rather than the spirits had a hand in the affair and handed her a like sentence of ten years. She indorsed and cashed the paper.

Mrs. McAlpine married her laborer-lover just before going to prison so that her children might have a name.

Beauty Chats

by Edna Kent Forbes

HINTS FOR COUNTRY WOMEN

There is a general and quite unfounded idea that everyone who lives in the country must automatically be healthy and beautiful—an idea probably resulting from the popularity of pastoral poetry during the last generation.

It's true there's less soot—though many an isolated farm is near enough to a railway track to get its share; and with speeding autos, all get more than their share of dust! It's true the air is better, but so is the sun more fierce, or the winter winds more keen. And the lack of abundant flowing hot water discourages anyone from too many beauty treatments and baths. Besides, drug stores are apt to be far off, and limited in stock, so few good beauty preparations can be bought.

But try these suggestions. The farmer's wife has plenty of oatmeal about—tie up one tablespoonful into a muslin bag, make a dozen or more bags; they'll keep. Drop one into the bottom of the pitcher of water in each bedroom; it will soften hard water, and it will bleach the skin and give it a soft, smooth surface. This treatment takes up no extra time.

Starch paste, rosemary toilet water, parsley bleach, cucumber milk—these beauty lotions come from your garden; make them up at odd times. An egg shampoo is always possible on a farm—even when it's too expensive to be indulged in by the city girl. Coarse salt kept for stock or for the ice-cream freezer will give you a salt bath with no trouble at all; toilet vinegars can be made from sweet herbs and flowers and ordinary clear vinegar.

You will have to purchase white mineral oil—unless you already have it as a laxative in the medicine cupboard—and a few ounces each of white wax and spermaceti. With these you can make all the creams, milks and lotions you could possibly need.

M. J. M.—You are probably only in need of a good building tonic such as those in which there is cod liver oil. As you gain in weight your other troubles will likely disappear.

Eleanor—After using the astringent, massage cream into the skin to soothe it. As your skin is so dry always work a little cream into it after you have used water on it. Wipe off the surplus and dust the skin with a little powder, or omit this if you wish.

H. S. B.—If you gradually acquire a coat of tan you will not have these spells of excessive burning. No lotion that you put on before the exposure will prevent sunburn.

Anxious Girl—Cocoa butter comes in cake form and will be found in any drug store.

K. N. B.-S. G. F.—At fourteen years, ninety-five pounds could be considered normal weight if the general health is good. Any of the preparations in which there are honey and almonds will keep the hands soft and relieve their tendency to redness.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes in care of the "Beauty Chats" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So, if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor.

Diet and Health

By Lulu Hunt Peters, M.D.

Author of "Diet and Health, with Key to the Calories"

ANSWERS TO CO RRESPONDENTS

Mrs. M.—There are 100 C's in a moderate sized banana. The number of calories in a griddle cake would depend upon its size and the amount of fat that would adhere to it. You can compute its value from that of a large slice of bread one-half inch thick, which is 100 C's.

At the menopause the ovaries cease to give off the ova or cells and the menstruation ceases, so the function of child-bearing would cease. The other functions are lessened but do not cease.

"Dear Doctor:

"Please at some time let me know what causes the skin on the neck to resemble a chicken when plucked. I weigh 160 pounds and am five feet in height.—K."

Good heavens! I don't know. I am trying to picture what a chicken looks like when plucked to get your comparison, and am also trying to picture what you look like weighing forty pounds more than you should. I think that the excess weight causes the plucked chicken look. Try reducing and see if that doesn't help.

"Dear Doctor:

"Your article, 'It Won't Be Any Easier Tomorrow,' started me dieting. When I go without my breakfast in the morning at 10 o'clock I get very hungry and my stomach begins to roll. Now I work alongside of my boss, and I wouldn't want him to hear my stomach rolling, so I have to help myself to some of my lunch—and my resolve to reduce is gone. Sometimes I think that if it weren't for my stomach rolling I could keep going without my breakfast, and thus reduce. After a few days would my stomach get accustomed to emptiness and the tendency to roll wear off?—M. C."

Stomach rolling surely is an embarrassing thing. The medical name of gas noises in the intestinal tract is borborygmus. Some name, eh? You are right, M., it will stop after a while. However, there is no reason why you should not have something at 10 o'clock; perhaps a glass or two of water or a medium-sized apple (about fifty calories) would stop the rumpus.

"Dear Doctor:

"What I learned from your article, 'The Atonic Abdominal Wall,' advising exercises to strengthen the abdominal walls, is worth a good many yearly subscriptions to our paper.—B."

I have had many letters telling me of the benefit received from this article. Those of you who wish it may have it by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of this paper.

Mrs. M.—Unless the enlarged tonsils of your six-year-old boy are inflamed or are so large as to cause an obstruction, there would be no indication for any operation. Pay special attention to his diet. See that he gets foods containing the growth principles, and of course pay attention to all other hygienic measures.

Mrs. C.—If your doctor says your heart is perfect, it is probably the gas that is causing your distress. How about your diet? Is it balanced and are you masticating your food enough? We have an article on balanced diet you may have. Enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Mrs. C.—You feet won't pain and ache so much, nor will you be so nervous, after you reduce your weight. For your other troubles you must see your family physician. The reducing pamphlet has been sent. Success to you.

INSUFFICIENCY

There is no one beside thee and no one above thee,
Thou standest alone as the

And my words that would praise thee are impotent things.
For none can express thee though all should approve thee.
I love thee so, dear, that I only

Say, what can I do for thee, weary thee, grieve thee?
Lean on thy shoulder, new burdens to add?
Weep my tears over thee, making thee sad?
Oh, hold me not—love me not!
Let me retrieve thee,
I love thee so, dear, that I only can leave thee.

Steak-Kidney Pie—Have your butcher cut two pounds of round steak into small oblong strips. Also have him dice one lamb's kidney. Parboil the diced kidney (that is, boil it in salted water for 15 minutes, drain and cool), then roll both the kidney pieces and the steak strips in flour and dust with salt and pepper. Put a layer of the steak in a deep baking dish, sprinkle finely minced raw onion (in all, you will need two large onions), then put in a layer of the kidney pieces; alternate these layers till both kinds of meat are used up—sprinkling with the onion between each layer. Pour two cups of boiling water over all (to moisten well) and cover with a simple biscuit crust. Bake for two hours in a moderate oven. Serve very hot. (This is an excellent dish to serve occasionally on Sunday. So often the family tires of the customary leg of lamb, roast of beef or chicken in the Sunday dinner, and this pie provides a welcome change.)

Sauce for a Spanish Omelet—Make an ordinary omelet, and put the following sauce upon it before folding it over: Chop one large peeled onion finely and saute it in two tablespoons of butter for several minutes; now add one-fourth teaspoon of salt, a pinch of pepper, a little Mexican chili powder, if you have it (just enough to color—but if you haven't it, you may substitute the red paprika, or may even use finely chopped red pepper), and then add one tablespoon of flour and blend smoothly. Also add one green pepper which you have previously cut in two to remove seeds, then boiled for ten minutes in water to cover, drained, and chopped finely. Turn one-half can of tomatoes into this mixture (or use the same quantity of ripe, stewed tomatoes) and let simmer for ten minutes before turning over the omelet. A Spanish omelet makes an excellent luncheon or supper dish. Stewed celery may also be added to this sauce.

Scrambled Tomatoes—Remove skins from six large ripe tomatoes and slice. Add a little butter, salt and pepper and cook in their own juice (with a very little water added) till tender. Then stir two beaten eggs into the hot tomatoes, cook three minutes longer, stirring one way, and serve.

Side Talks

A PORTRAIT

I have on my desk before me what I should call an excellent portrait of the modern woman at her best.

It is painted by herself.

And painted without the subject knowing it was being painted. And without the artist knowing she was doing it.

Now having read you my riddle, I will mercifully cut short this suspense and give you the answer at once.

The portrait is painted not in colors but in words. And it is painted unconsciously because it is simply part of a letter to me from one of those wonderful letter-friends who keep me in touch with the heart of the world by giving me such little cross-sections of their daily lives as this is.

Here is the paragraph which unconsciously paints a picture of the modern woman:

Stove Blackening and Superintendents

"I have had a busy morning. A characteristic one. I washed and cooked and planned meals and in between times telephoned to councilmen about when the option on the proposed play ground for the fifth ward would expire.

"Then I swept the kitchen and called up the chairman of the program committee for the mothers' club this evening.

"Then I blackened the stove and called up the superintendent of school property to arrange for the transfer of some desks and chairs to our district.

"I emptied the swill bucket and ran across to borrow a neighbor's Outline of History so I can look up Ashoka. I am not sure that I have spelled him correctly, but anyway I have to write him up for the next meeting of our History Circle. Otherwise I would not be interested in Ashoka and would probably go through life thinking he was a cold cream whenever I heard his name mentioned. So it is perhaps just as well that I have to do things like that. I presume it is what is meant by club life being broadeneing.

"And, speaking of broadening, reminds me that I am on diet again.

"I must go down and prepare lunch now. The children have just come in. They will have mashed potatoes, sliced ham, creamed corn and chocolate cake. I shall have two lettuce leaves, a glass of skim milk, and a pretzel."

When I began I meant to end my quotation from her letter where she stops speaking of club life. I included the rest for two reasons. That you might realize what a thoroughly unconscious, natural letter it was, and that you might not feel that the woman who would take such vital interest in outside affairs had no children or perhaps neglected them. She has three, and I don't think that lunch sounds like neglect, do you?

Millions of New Women

And, as a matter of fact, she finds more time to enjoy her children and be enjoyed by them than any other woman I know.

Of course this woman has a tremendous measure of vitality. But I know and am happy in knowing that there are millions of women in this country who, in so far as their strength permits, are leavening the daily routine of household tasks with stimulating interests such as this woman describes.

What a splendid thing, both for them and for the country! Truly, the time our grandmothers spent weaving and candle dipping and making soap and all such industries has not been given back to us in vain.

HONOLULU, June 16—Whole islands denuded of vegetation by hordes of wild rabbits, birds by the thousands, which nest in the sands; a fisherman's paradise, where the catching of half a ton of sharks or food fish is the work of but an hour—these are some of the stories brought back by the U. S. S. Tanager, Navy eagle boat, which recently made a series of cruises among the northwest islands of the Hawaiian group in order to permit a party of government scientists to make a study of bird and plant life on these uninhabited and little-known spots.

The first cruise of the Tanager extended all the way to Midway Island, the farthest west of the Hawaiian group, and included Bird Island, French Frigate Shoals, Gardiner's Island and many of the coral reefs en route.

At Laysan, the party reported, there was evidence of a bitter war which had been waging between the rabbits and the plant life of the island. Pictures taken a few years ago show an island well covered with vegetation of considerable variety, though none higher than bushes. Now the island is nearly bare and covered with sand. Rabbits were everywhere. Although the land birds had suffered with the plants the albatrosses, with their downy, recently hatched young drawn closely about them, were there in thousands, nestling on the bare sand so close together that members of the party in places had to pick a path between them.

No sooner had the Tanager anchored off Laysan than the sharks began to come alongside. Officers and "gobs" aboard the ship got out their fishing tackle, and it was only after scores of these huge monsters of the sea had been taken from the water and killed that there seemed to be any let up at all. Later the big ulua and other food fish came around, and in less than an hour members of the crew had taken aboard a catch of almost 1000 pounds.

At Ocean Island seals were found in abundance, basking on the sand. Birds, too, were plentiful here, for there were no rabbits, and the vegetation was still quite dense.

One of the results of the trip is that the Tanager now has as its mascot "Kicky", a wild burro captured on Eastern Island, a little atoll near Midway. "Kicky" and more than a score of his immediate relatives, who were found on Eastern Island, are the descendants of a pair of burros taken out to the cable station at Midway years ago. After the arrival of the original pair at Midway it was discovered that they were multiplying so fast that the island would not have room enough to hold them, and all were deported to Eastern Island. Wholly untamed, the herd is now roaming over this little atoll in the middle of the Pacific, and it was only after considerable difficulty that "Kicky" was captured and brought aboard the Tanager by the "gobs". Several more cruises are planned for the summer.

Sorry tidings were brought to E. C. Reno, government scientist, when the Tanager recently reached Laysan Island. Word was received in Honolulu early in May that Reno's wife had died at Wilcox, Arizona, but at the time Reno was on Laysan, and there was no method of communication with him. It was not until weeks later that word of her death could be brought to him by the Tanager.

Coastwise vessels running between Honolulu and the Pacific coast will no longer be obliged to stop outside the harbor here for quarantine inspection, if recommendations made by Dr. Ernest A. Sweet, chief quarantine officer of the United States Public Health station here, receive favorable action at Washington.

At the present time all vessels entering Honolulu harbor, except those which come from the other islands of the Hawaiian group, are obliged to undergo inspection.

The new ruling, if it goes into effect, would exempt vessels of the Matson Line and the Los Angeles Steamship Company, which ply between California and Hawaii.

RADIO

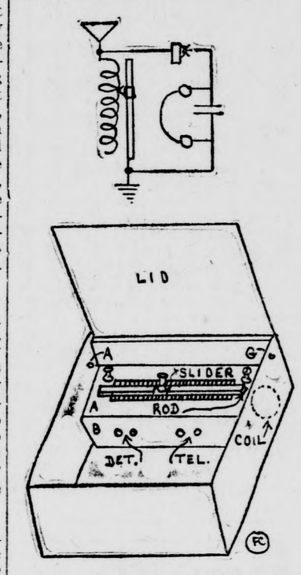
A PORTABLE CRYSTAL SET

A crystal set that can be handily carried around will be found very useful when one is within reach of a large broadcasting station. It can be used to entertain your friends who are less fortunate than you, in not having a receiving set, or it can be taken with you on short trips.

The set should be small and can consist of a box on the order of a cigar box, a cardboard mailing tube to fit in the box and not near as large in diameter as the box, a slider rod, crystal detector stand, fixed condenser and telephones and ninety feet of No. 22 cotton covered copper wire. As slider rods, sliders, fixed condenser and detector stands are so cheap, it would not pay you to make any of them.



If the box is two and one-half inches deep, five and three-quarters inches wide and eight and three-quarters inches long, the cardboard tube should be one and one-quarter inches in diameter and long enough to fit snugly into the box. Two wooden panels will be required, one two and one-quarter inches wide and long enough to fit in the box; the other will be one and one-quarter inches wide and the same length as the larger panel. These two will fit over the tube. The larger panel will have a slot cut in it slightly shorter than the slider rod and wide enough for the slider to work back and forth.

The detector stand can either be mounted on the side of the smaller panel or on the base of the box, but it should be placed where it will be easy to adjust. It can even have wires extending out of the box so the stand can be placed on a thick piece of felt and placed on the table or wherever you may have the set. As with any other crystal set, successful operation of it depends on the "point" you get on the crystal, and this can only be obtained with the use of a test buzzer which can also be included in the box if necessary. The dry cell to operate the buzzer should be carried separately.

Two binding posts for your aerial and ground are mounted on the larger panel, one at each end. The telephones may be permanently connected to the fixed condenser, but a better method would be to add two more binding posts to the smaller panel and connect the telephones to them and the fixed condenser (which should be a good one with mica insulation) can be placed between the two binding posts; in fact, the binding posts can be spaced according to the space between the condenser terminals.

Connections to the aerial and ground binding posts can be made by boring holes through the sides of the box instead of bringing the wires in over the top.

A wiring diagram of this set is shown, but in case it is not clear to some, the aerial and one side of the crystal detector stand goes to the start of the coil, the ground connection and one side of the fixed condenser is connected to the slider, and the other side of the crystal and condenser are connected together. This completes the connections.

In winding the tube put on all the wire you have, and if your slider isn't long enough to cover it, put the slider on the end nearest the ground connection so that you may vary the turns at that end of the tube as you will require a certain number in near the aerial end of the coil, no matter what wave length you are tuning to.

A proposed layout of the set is shown in the drawing, but it is not necessary to adhere to this one as the way the parts are laid out will depend on the box you are able to get hold of.

POINTERS

If signals are strong you can connect several pairs of telephones in series instead of each person only having one telephone.

When your audion burns lower than the usual brilliancy your battery is dead and needs charging.

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories

— BY HOWARD R. GARIS —

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE PINCHING BUG

Once upon a time Uncle Wiggily started out to look for an adventure in the woods. It was a beautiful day, with the sun shining, the wind blowing through the trees and the birds singing in the bushes.

"Surely I ought to have a wonderful adventure this day," said the bunny rabbit gentleman to himself, twinkling his pink nose.

He hopped along a little further, looking this way and that way with his bright, sharp eyes, and then he saw a low, broad stump, with a covering of soft moss.

"I shall sit down there and rest myself a while," thought Uncle Wiggily. "It will do my rheumatism good."

Down he sat, but almost as quickly 2he2 leaped to his feet, clapped one paw behind him and cried:

"I'm shot or stabbed or something! Oh, what a pain."

"You've been pinched! That is what happened you!" spoke a jolly little voice. "I'm sorry, Uncle Wiggily," the voice went on, "but whenever I am sat on I just naturally pinch the first thing I get hold of, and this time it happened to be your leg."

"Oh, did I sit on you, and who are you and did you pinch me?" asked the bunny gentleman, looking down at the stump.

"Three questions!" chuckled the small voice. "And I'll answer them. You did. I am the Pinching Bug and I did."

"Eh—if you please—just what do you mean?" asked Uncle Wiggily, twinkling his pink nose.

"I mean that you sat down on me as I was asleep on the stump, and before I knew who you were I pinched you," was the answer, and then the bunny rabbit gentleman saw a jolly fat little Pinching Bug sunning himself on the moss.

"I beg your pardon for sitting on you," said the rabbit gentleman with a low and polite bow of his tall silk hat.

"Oh, that's all right. I beg your pardon for pinching you, so now we are even," laughed the bug. Then Uncle Wiggily, seeing what a jolly chap the insect was, suggested:

"Suppose we travel on together and see what adventure we may have. How about it?"

"That suits me," replied the Bug, and so the two friends set out together to find adventures. They had not gone very far before they met Grandfather Goosey Gander and the old goose gentleman was in bad trouble. He had walked through a briar patch and his feathers were stuck over with ticks, burdocks and thistles.

"And I can never pick myself clean!" quacked Grandpa Goosey.

"My friend the Pinching Bug will help you," said Uncle Wiggily. And the Bug, who had been riding along on top of the bunny gentleman's tall silk hat, soon, with his strong pinching jaws, had pulled every tick, burr and thistle from Grandpa Goosey's feathers.

"Oh, thank you!" quacked the goose gentleman. "That was quite an adventure.'

"Not half exciting enough! Not half!" laughed Uncle Wiggily. "I must have something more thrilling than that."

"Come along then," invited the Pinching Bug." So they traveled on a little further until they came to a place in the woods where a fallen tree made a good place for Uncle Wiggily to sit down and rest. And as he was sitting there, all of a sudden, out of the bushes popped the Bob Cat.

"At, ha!" snarled the Bob Cat. "This time you came to me instead of me having to go to you. And now I shall nibble your ears."

"Oh, dear!" sighed Uncle Wiggily. But the Pinching Bug, on top of the rabbit's hat whispered in the bunny's ear:

I can never pick myself clean! quacked Grandpa Goosey.

"Ask the Bob Cat to sit down beside you on the fallen tree and leave the rest to me."

So Uncle Wiggily invited the Bob Cat to sit down. But the bad chap had no sooner taken his place, sitting down beside Mr. Longears, than, all of a quickness up the Bob Cat jumped, crying:

"Oh, I'm shot! I'm stabbed! Oh, someone jabbed me with a red-hot hat pin! Oh, this is no place for me!" And away he ran as fast as he could go.

"Well, wasn't that a good adventure, Uncle Wiggily?" asked the Pinching Bug. "I flew off your hat and hid myself on the log where the Bob Cat sat down, and when he sat on me I pinched him. Didn't I do right?"

"Indeed you did, and it was a jolly good adventure. Thank you!" laughed Mr. Longears. Then he took the Pinching Bug home to the hollow stump bungalow and gave him some rose leaf jelly for supper. And if the chocolate cake doesn't hide down in the salt cellar when the ice cream wants it to go to the rag doll's party, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the July Bug.

BILLY WHISKERS

by FRANCES TREGO MONTGOMERY

You remember yesterday's story told you why the big ape was on board the ship the chums were on. The reason he was found hugging the cook was not because he was cross or going to hurt her, but because he was trying to show his affection for her, and his appreciation of her kind treatment of him. She would bring him little cakes whenever she baked, which he dearly loved, as he did all sweet things. And on hot days she would bring him cool, refreshing drinks, which he would gulp down greedily.

He was amusing himself one day by twisting the bars of his cage when one broke, and he immediately broke others until he had a hole large enough to crawl through. Then he squeezed himself through the opening and was free. At first he jumped around in the sunshine and rolled on the deck, delighted just to be free and to feel he could stretch and stretch and not touch a bar. But after a while he tired of this and started on a tour of exploration, and, having seen all he wanted to on deck, he ran up one of the masts two or three times. From here he spied a hole in the deck and, being of a curious disposition, he though he would go down into it and see what he could find.

This hole happening to be the hatchway nearest the kitchen, as he stood over it he smelt a delicious spicy odor that he recognized immediately as the smell of the cakes the cook brought to him and which he loved so dearly. His whole heart was bent on getting some, so he followed the smell, which you know led him to the kitchen. When he arrived at the kitchen door the cook was stooping to look into the oven to see how her cakes were coming along, and when the fragrance of them reached the ape's nostrils he gave a grunt of delight. This grunt the cook heard, and she turned to see where the queer noise came from. On discovering the ape she nearly fainted at seeing him out of his cage, and gave a hurried look about for something with which to protect herself. But she did not have time to move, for, on recognizing her as the person who gave him sweets and fruits and cooling drinks, the ape gave a second grunt of joy and bounded toward her, catching her up in his long, hairy arms to pet her, as all the monkey tribe like to show affection to those who are kind to them, and they like to be petted in return. He was trying to show his appreciation of her kindness to him, but somehow she did not care for his hugs and kisses. You know the rest, and how when she screamed for help Billy and the Chums came to her rescue.

(Tomorrow the Chums sight Panama.)

ON THE SPUR OF THE MOMENT

BY ROY K. MOULTON

EASY "MONEY"

A lady of beauty, in fact a rare cutie, was sadly in need of the dough,
A real fascination for one of her station, she used as she jogged to and fro
In rich hotel lobbies with old business jobbies, she talked of her future so punk,
She was not the first one nor even the worst one to pull this old moth-eaten bunk.
She played the old hokum, designing to soak 'em and finally won by a sob,
This frolicsome fairy became secretary to old Mr. Doughbags —some job.

Quick wealth had its lures and to write signatures, she practiced from morning till night,
And soon she was able to sit at a table and forge them with left hand or right.
Her style was so easy that millionaires wheezy confided their secrets each day,
And notes and checks phony, she made by her loney and cashed in a nonchalant way.
She took a long chance in the realms of finance with the fortune she'd made all alone,
She signed some more paper, the usual caper, to start a young trust of her own

She soon interested rich guys who invested to help the poor darling along.
She had schemes a-plenty, full fifteen or twenty, but suddenly something went wrong.
The old phony writing sent her affairs kiting. The suckers let out a loud yell,
And one more young beauty and financial cutie woke up in a dark prison cell.

Through all of the ages on history's pages the moral it set, plain as day,
Though it may sound funny, there's no easy money, for money just don't come that way.

The efficiency expert stepped into the business man's office. He had been summoned.

Quickly he glanced about the room and made a fearful discovery.

"No wonder," he snapped. "No wonder your business is failing. You are without the greatest aid to business."

"What is that?" asked the perplexed business man.

"Never mind," said the expert, "I will solve all your troubles in a few minutes. I will be back presently," and he dashed out.

In a short time he returned bearing a large placard which he deftly tacked over the desk. It read:

"DO IT NOW!"

"Here," said the expert. "That is what you lacked—that sign. Your troubles are now over. My work here is done. You will get the bill later."

And he disappeared.

WHO'S WHO IN THE DAY'S NEWS

SENATOR EDW. I. EDWARDS

The coming of Senator Edward Irving Edwards, Democrat, of New Jersey, to the senate next December, will give real joy to the anti-prohibitionists in congress. There is a feeling among the downtrodden wets that Edwards has the courage to say what he thinks on the all-prevailing issue. Just what Edwards can do for them, if willing, remains to be seen.

Senator Edwards defeated Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, Republican, giving him a great surprise, for he had extended invitations to friends in Washington to a re-election jubilee.

Edwards is a product of New Jersey. He was born in the town of Bergen, December 1, 1863. His father, William W. Edwards, was a native of Wales, and his mother, Emma J. Edwards, came from England.

Edwards was educated in the public schools of Jersey City and New York University. He studied law in the office of his brother, the late William D. Edwards, but quit in the middle of his course to accept a position with the First National Bank of Jersey City. After seven years there he resigned his position to get out more and build up his health. He became a contractor, in the name of Edwards Brothers. He served as clerk to the Martin act commission and became an authority on all matters relating to taxation. In 1903 he returned to the First National Bank at the request of the president, Edward F. C. Young, and became assistant to him. He was promoted to cashier and director and president. He is now at the head of the bank.

Edwards was elected comptroller of the treasury of New Jersey in 1911. In 1913 he was a candidate for state treasurer, but was defeated because of a split in the Democratic party, causing the governor, Woodrow Wilson, to oppose him.

SITTING OVER GOLD MINE AT HOME

Even Far Away England Realizes Opportunity of People Here

Southern California is commanding the attention of the world—and Glendale is taking a prominent part in the Southland's pageant of progress, now being viewed through the binoculars of foreign peoples, as well as by our own far-sighted easterners and dwellers in the middle west.

From London, England, comes a letter asking the name of "a reliable firm of realtors to co-operate with us in the sale of properties to English people going out to your neighborhood."

The English "House and Estate Agency, Ltd.," wanted among other things "a list of selected improved income-bearing properties—orange groves and fruit farms or poultry and pig ranches—at prices ranging from $5,000 to $25,000."

It Must Be Good

The request was made by the foreign firm that photographs accompany the descriptions of properties. The letter was addressed to Tom Ingersoll, secretary of the Los Angeles Realty Board.

The motto of this communication, say local realtors, is that when a good thing can make itself known 7,000 miles away, it must be pretty good! And the moral is, people of the Pacific southwest and of Glendale are right here on the premises—whereas those eager Englishmen have a mighty distance to come!

One realtor of this city expressed himself vigorously as follows:

"Talk about that old proverb, 'None are so blind as they who will not see'—why, say, we Glendale folks are sitting on a gold mine, wondering where the gold is! Think of having to be shown by a foreigner! Here we are, right on the inside, and we don't know it.

Need More Payrolls

"We talk about outside capital to develop our city. That's bosh! We have the capital. What we need is outside labor—a payroll. Then we'll widen the corral and take them in with us. They'll buy lots and build homes and become Glendalians, like we are.

"Let's keep Glendale a close corporation, by having our property owned by our citizens. If the Englishmen want to live here, fine and dandy. But—if we aren't going to finance Glendale ourselves, and if we continue to be so blind we cannot see (some of us!), then we'll have to sell Glendale to outsiders. But, remember, folks, if that ever happens—we had the first chance ourselves, and couldn't see it!"

Another local realtor declares: "We are too close to Southern California, too close to Glendale, to see clearly. Even when we climb to the tops of those green Verdugo hills and look down on the broad, level panorama spread below us, we are too close to get a clear vision. We see as through a haze.

"And the funny thing about it is, we underestimate rather than overestimate values! Californians have been called the greatest boosters the world has produced. Easterners delight to call them that. But who is it that comes out here and pays the prices Californians are asking for their property, when fellow Californians are afraid to touch it? It is your very easterners who so delight to call us boosters. They get out here and find that we fall so far short of the booster classification as to be painfully modest!"

Building? My, Yes!

A third real estate man of this city insists that:

"Here is Glendale, a city of over 40,000 people and growing like to burst right out of its vest and annex Los Angeles! And here are we, rubbing our eyes and wondering if it is all a dream—when around us giant structures are rearing, to the tune of riveting machines, while the hammers are sounding on literally hundreds of bungalows, duplexes, flats, apartments, bungalow courts and the like.

"The clatter of those riveting machines and the rattle of those hammers will wake up the sleepy ones some day—but it will be too late. They will find here a city of 150,000, with no business frontage under $1,000 a foot and no residence property under $2,000 a room.

"And some few wide-awake ones will be sitting pretty, having managed to sit tight and feed the ante till the pot grew big. Who is going to be among the wide-awake ones, five years from now? And who is going to be among the sleepy heads?"

NEW AVENUE TO GRIFFITH PARK AND HOLLYWOOD GREAT NEED OF SECTION

Northwest Residential Section Benefits in Project Revealed By City Manager Reeves Today; Civic Co-operation Is Promised

PAVING of Western avenue from the mountains to the sea—from the uppermost heights of Glendale's exclusive residential district to the Pacific ocean—is a project practically culminated by the various bodies interested in the civic improvement of Glendale, Los Angeles, Hollywood, and other sections adjacent to Western avenue. It was more than a year ago that the dream of this day caused the city to officially christen Western avenue here. And the developments during the last few days will give impetus to the sales of real estate in that favored section of the city.

The project includes the paving of that portion of Western avenue between San Fernando road and Griffith park, giving Glendale another outlet to the Hollywood hills, as well as a scenic route to the beach at Santa Monica. The plans are practically complete, according to information made public today, and City Manager W. H. Reeves states:

Glendale Will Benefit

"It is my belief that this project is the most vital to that portion of Glendale which is to benefit. It is my opinion the Chamber of Commerce and all civic organizations will give it every ounce of support necessary, for the plans include a bridge across Los Angeles river and other improvements which will require a unity of purpose."

There will be a committee appointed to work with the county board of supervisors and with property owners to have them lend their aid in making Western avenue one of Glendale's most beautiful boulevards.

From Mountain street on the north into the very portals of Griffith park it is planned to pave Western avenue, which then becomes the wonderfully scenic drive over Mount Hollywood to Western avenue in Los Angeles. This is sure to make most valuable the property in the vicinity of Western avenue, in the opinion of Mr. Reeves.

Others Co-operate

This statement is echoed by P. J. Hayselden, a director of the Chamber of Commerce. He plans to see that a petition is circulated among the interested property owners for this improvement and presented to the city council, as well as carried before the board of supervisors, by the roads and bridges committee of the Chamber.

"This is a most worthy project and everyone should lend their support," suggests Mr. Hayselden, who is experienced in development work and knows what benefits will accrue from another avenue to the sea. All property owners should be in favor of the procedure, as it will link Glendale with Riverside drive, intersect San Fernando road, and otherwise improve the highway system of this section of Los Angeles county.

Will Increase Values

From the standpoint of local real estate, the paving of Western avenue from Hollywood to the foothills of Glendale along the lines proposed and generally accepted as assured, will offer an opportunity for making wonderful profits on the part of property owners in the vicinity, according to Alfred R. Johnson of the Suburban Realty Company, 508 South Brand boulevard. His firm is now engaged in selling scenic homesites in the Western avenue district of Glendale, known as Suburban Heights.

In this connection, he said: Repeated warnings of bankers and financial experts early this

SAN FERNANDO ROAD IS HIGHWAY TO PROSPERITY

Just Two Short Years Ago Property Could Be Bought For $12 to $15 Per Front Foot; Today It—But Look Into Future

By H. THOMPSON RICH
Of The Evening News Staff

NO more romantic or inspirational story has ever been written than that of San Fernando road as it passes through Glendale. The story was written not by famed author, with pen dipped in golden words, nor in rare volume bound with gold hasps—but inscribed in gold and bound with gold nevertheless, and filed away in the library of the Hall of Records, Los Angeles, with the county recorder as transcriber of the manuscript, joint authorship being in the scores of buyers who in the past two years have invested money in San Fernando road frontage.

Two years ago, real estate along that artery could have been bought for around $12 to $15 per front foot. Today that same property is bringing from $100 to $130 and up per front foot.

"In 1921 the entire 6,000 feet or so of frontage on both sides of San Fernando road, from Los Feliz road to Pacific avenue, the section now beautified with the ornamental lights, could have been bought for something like $75,000," states L. H. Wilson, realtor, of 1034 South San Fernando road. "Today, just two years later, that same 6,000 feet of frontage could not be bought for under $600,000, or an average profit of 800 per cent over the twenty-four-month period.

It's Magic Road

"Two years ago industries were few along this magic road, and stores few and far between. Now factories and plants are humming with activity and many more planning to locate on or near San Fernando road, while stores, offices and apartments are rising all along the boulevard and automobile traffic has increased correspondingly, it being estimated by the Automobile Club of Southern California that upwards of 24,000 cars per day pass over this great artery of trade, or nearly 3,000 cars per hour during the eight hours known as the business day.

"Two years ago San Fernando road was merely a highway. Today it is the leading boulevard of Southern California—which means the leading boulevard of the world!"

Mr. Wilson admits that this is a broad statement and says that it is as long as it is broad—longer, in fact, for San Fernando road, he says, runs from Mexico to Canada and is the one great north and south artery of the Pacific coast, combining as it passes through Glendale its great natural industrial advantages with the advertising and selling power of a motor traffic of 24,000 cars every twenty-four hours, an average of 1,000 cars an hour, night and day, week in, week out, with the number ever mounting.

Advance Good Reasons

Realtors and property owners along San Fernando road have carefully analyzed the situation and give the following reasons as their aggregate opinion why this boulevard is destined to far outstrip in the two years ahead even its phenomenal development of the past two years:

1. It is the direct outlet, from Bakersfield and the San Joaquin and San Fernando valleys, to the great trade terminus of the Pacific southwest, Los Angeles.
2. It combines industrial, trade and business advantages with the buying and advertising power of a much-traveled highway.
3. It comes from somewhere and goes somewhere.
4. It is one of the oldest roads

American Industries Are Prosperous, Figures Show

WASHINGTON, June 16.—American industries are continuing to hit "on all six cylinders," according to figures compiled today by the department of labor, showing that during May there was a slight increase in the number of employes, while wages increased more than 4 per cent over the preceding months.

The department's report covered 6,075 representative establishments in 47 manufacturing industries, in which 2,249,425 persons were employed, whose total earnings for one week amounted to $60,219,175.

Identical establishments in April reported 2,242,500 employes and total payrolls of $57,847,236. The percentages of increases amounted to 0.3 in number of employes, 4.10 in total amount paid in wages and 3.8 in the average weekly earnings.

One thousand two hundred and seventy-nine establishments, or more than 20 per cent of the total, reported increases in wages. The average increase was 10.4 per cent, affecting 88 per cent of the employes in various industries, and 25 per cent of the entire number in all establishments covered by the department's report.

FIRST GOLD MEDAL

The Southern California Edison Company has won the first gold medal struck off for the Charles A. Coffin foundation, as an annual award to the electric light and power company of the country making "the most destinguished contribution to the development of electric light and power for the convenience of the public and the benefit of the industry during the year 1922."

About $37,000,000 to Be Available for Highway Work in State

A total of $37,000,000 will be available to the state and counties of California for road construction and maintenance during the fiscal years 1923-24 and 1924-25, according to an estimate made by the chief of the motor vehicle department, based upon revenues provided for under the three bills enacted at the recent session of the legislature and signed by Governor Richardson.

These are the two bills by Senator Breed, one placing a tax of two cents per gallon on gasoline and the other revising the motor vehicle act and one by Assemblyman Duval taxing gross receipts of motor bus and truck lines.

Revenues from these sources will be divided equally between the state and the counties.

Estimate Revenues

It is estimated that the state's revenues from the motor tax and license laws for the first fiscal year will amount to about $8,400,000 and for the second fiscal year will total about $9,870,000.

These funds will be applied, according to the program mapped out by the state highway commission to the construction of 364.7 miles of state highway and to maintenance of 3926 miles of improved state roads during the fiscal year and 4148 miles of state roads during the second fiscal year.

In addition to these funds the state will have about $6,000,000 available from the $40,000,000 bond issues for new construction.

This means that the state highway commission will have plenty to do for the next two years.

SEES BIG GROWTH

Samuel K. Lindley, prominent Los Angeles realtor, who died on June 7, came to that city in 1883 when its population was only 25,000, and had engaged continuously in the real estate business to within a few years prior to his death.

TO PRESERVE ART

Architecture will have a place in American museums, if a movement started recently at Washington gains headway.

REDUCE COST OF BUILDING, PLAN

Standardization Would Aid In Lowering Prices, Says Contractor

Building in all its branches must co-operate with affiliated industries to reduce the cost of completed structures, especially homes.

This was decided at the monthly conference of the New York Building Congress.

The session was particularly to start closer figuring between architects and contractors.

President Stephen F. Vorhees declared there was no doubt that the building industry could pass successfully through the temporary halt, due to too much prosperity—in other words, the too enthusiastic speculative bidding which laid a foundation for profiteering exactions on the part of those who could take advantage of such boom conditions.

To Reduce Costs

Don Barber, speaking for the architects, foresaw the greatest era of achievement ever opened, and called for able leaders to shape the new operations.

He dwelt on the need for close co-operation.

Marc Eidlitz, for the contractors, outlined plans for immediate elimination of much cost inflation through wide standardization in materials, less friction in plans, better understanding on estimates.

He said costs could be reduced a thousand and one ways through co-operative standardization.

He instanced doors as an example. Nearly every architect specifies a different thickness.

The speaker would have one uniform thickness, thus saving time, cost and confusion.

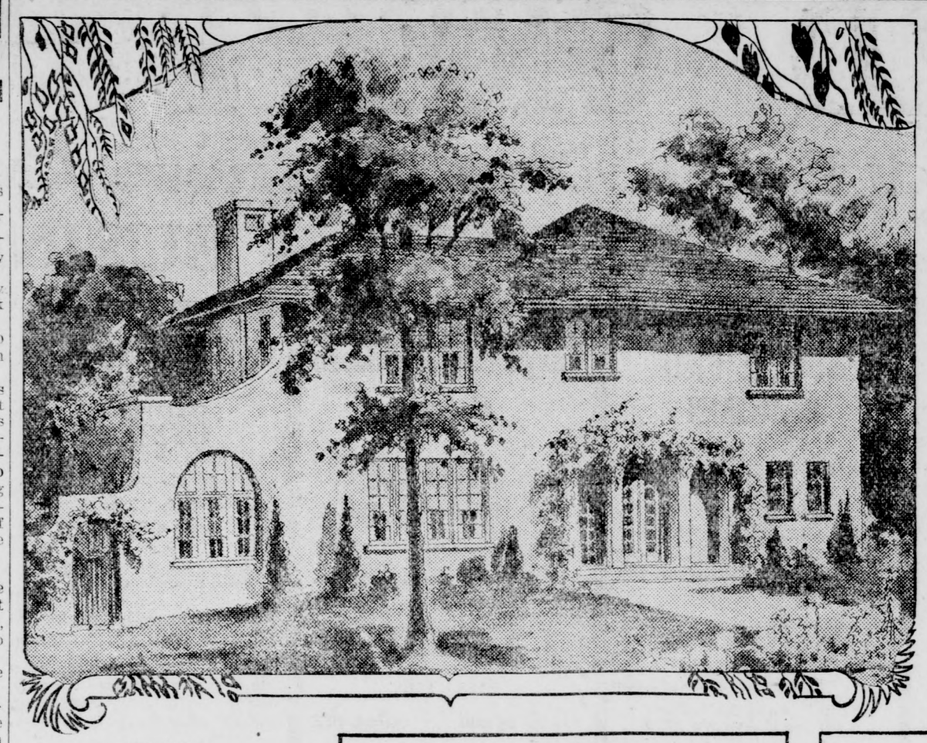
HERE IS PROSPERITY

Reported building permits issued during May, for thirty-seven cities, including Los Angeles, totaled $28,990,707, as compared with $16,627,635 for May of 1922.

BUSINESS GROWS

Realtors of Southern California may count on a very large business this summer, from eastern and middle western tourists, asserts C. G. Milham, executive secretary of the All Year Club.

HOUSE PLANS FOR HOME PLANNERS



For Garden Lover Picturesque Home

Hollow Tile Makes for Beauty As Well As Permanence, and Is Fireproof.

This house has been designed as a business investment as well as a comfortable home. It is of hollow tile, a material greatly in favor when permanence and beauty are desired and danger from fire is to be lessened through preventive construction.

There are four bedrooms in the second story with two baths, and a dressing room lined with closets from floor to ceiling. There are closets also in the hall as well as in each of the bedrooms. The owner's room is large and from it one may step to a delightful balcony overlooking the garden. This room is entirely separated from the other bedrooms by the spacious hall, dressing room and bath.

The greatest benefit of a garden is an attractive feature. The square that would be made by continuing the sun room wall in a straight line to the back of the house, to meet the line extended from the breakfast porch, could be utilized to make a most charming, retired garden with a fountain in the center, seats and tables all about, and fragrant flowers to add to the beauty and enjoyment of the home. This garden can be entered from either the sun room or the breakfast porch. No door is shown because it is a simple matter to extend any one of the windows into a French door, so that each builder may choose for himself where he wishes the door to be.

The wall enclosing this garden can be made of the same material as the house, or it may be a flowering hedge of some kind, or even a wide meshed lattice.

Because of the generous provisions made for porch and garden at the back, the entrance porch at the front need not be so large. From it one enters the hall, whence an extended view of the living room can be had. The living room is well lighted by two groups of windows and the entire end of it is a sun room. If desired, a fireplace can be introduced in the sun room because the chimney is already in place. The spacious hall is really an extension of the living room and makes the room a delightful one for parties or family gatherings.

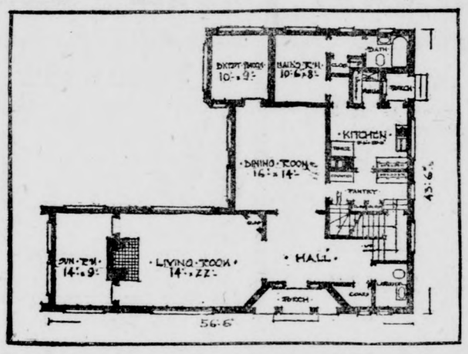
There is a dignity and charm about the doorway that is not often attained in the designing of a home. The thought of the arch is again seen in the sun room window and in the gateway leading to the garden. Do not forget to note the convenience of the coat closet and the lavatory just off the main hall.

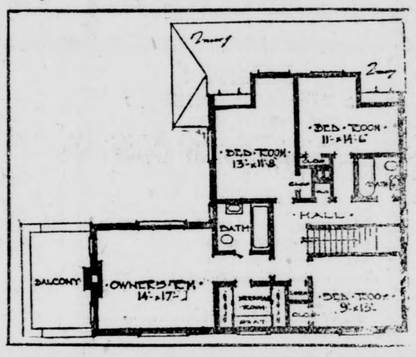
The kitchen is as complete as such a home would require and provision for the servants' quarters has been made at the back of the house where they would be close to their work and at the same time able to enjoy a view of the garden.

The stucco should be tinted a warm cream, or even a little deeper color would be pleasing. The frames of the windows should not be stained a deep brown as so often is seen, but all woodwork showing should harmonize most carefully with the tone of the stucco. The vines and shrubbery will give the required note of color.

There is a formal appearance in the design which may be combined wonderfully well with a simplicity that will lend a lasting charm to the whole house. Use native trees and flowers and shrubbery, and the effect will be best. Out of the many wonderful kinds of shingles to be had these days, choose the tone and kind most suited to harmonize with the rest of the house and the final appearance will surely be most pleasing.

Since the prices of material and labor vary so materially in different localities we do not attempt to give an estimate as to cost, but suggest that you consult your local builder, who can give you detailed information as to the cost of your exact needs to be installed in this design. For information as to the procuring of the building plans of this design No. 65, send stamped and self-addressed envelope to the House Plan Editor, in care of this paper.





The delightful possibilities of the garden suggested for this design, onto which look sun room and living room, dining room and breakfast nook and two of the upstairs bedrooms, will appeal to all lovers of beautiful surroundings. An imposing home for the builder who demands a good business investment.

100,000 Invited To K. C. Picnic at Rossmoyne Park

ONE hundred thousand Catholics will be invited to attend the Knights of Columbus picnic at Rossmoyne park in picturesque and historic Verdugo canyon on Sunday, June 24, according to Milton H. Berry, chairman of the local Knights' council committee on arrangements.

Members of the council will attend mass at every church in Southern California tomorrow and issue the invitation. The program committee is going to get the best speakers for the occasion possible and it is expected that a large number of picnickers will be in attendance.

OFFICE BUILDING SPACE INCREASES

Survey Shows Additions of 1922 and 1923 Are Very Great

Approximately 15,000,000 square feet of office building space will have been added to the business districts of twenty-two of the principal cities of North America during the two-year period ending December 31, 1923, it was revealed in a survey recently completed by the National association of Building Owners and Managers under the direction of J. F. Douglas of Seattle, chairman of the association renting committee.

The city adding the greatest amount of space both this year and last is Cleveland, O., according to the report.

How They Stand

Philadelphia is next in line, with New York third, Boston fourth, Los Angeles fifth and Chicago sixth.

In part the report says:

"The survey shows that much of this new space is being filled up by the demands of business, a significant indication of the condition of business throughout the nation.

"Communities can take pride in their new buildings, for they are symbols of the advancement being made in business importance, and modern architecture is doing much to improve the beauty of cities."

Mr. Douglas urged upon the 1500 owners and managers of the principal office buildings in the United States concentration of their energies upon improving the standard of the districts in which their buildings are located.

HOW TO SAVE SPACE

Ernst Flagg, builder of skyscrapers and the man who reared the first great spire on Manhattan Island, the Singer Tower says that great economies can be achieved in the building of the little bungalow, by the total elimination of spaces under the eaves and above the ceilings, known as "attics"; and by the utter abolition of the spaces above china and below floors, known as "cellars".

Building contracts awarded in thirty-six eastern states during May aggregated $433,906,000.

DIRECTOR NAMED FOR CHURCH WORK

Mrs. Lydia Haystead Chosen Christian Education Worker by Board

The Board of Deacons and the Board of Elders of the Glendale Presbyterian church by unanimous joint action have called Mrs. Lydia Haystead to the position of Director of Christian Education in the congregation. During his lifetime Mr. Haystead was a successful Presbyterian minister and since his death Mrs. Haystead has devoted her life to definite Christian work, for which she is splendidly qualified. She has done special work in the Fourth Presbyterian church of Chicago, of which Dr. John Timothy Stone is pastor. She has also served as pastor's assistant in the Fourth Presbyterian church of Spokane, Wash. In each one of these fields her work was eminently successful and both these churches occupy a prominent place in the work of the Presbyterian church at large. For the past five years she has been a Bible woman at the Bible Institute of Los Angeles and her work is highly commended by those in authority there.

Mrs. Haystead's work will be that of organizing the work of women and girls in the congregation along various suggested lines. She will also work in co-operation with the Sunday school officials in extending and developing the work of the Sunday school. When the new church is available it is expected that classes will meet daily at certain stated hours for definite Christian instruction. The need and demand for this work is very great and the possibilities of it are almost unlimited. The work has been carried on in some places so capably and efficiently that credit is given by the public school authorities for the work done in the church school. At present that is not possible in the state of California but it is expected to be possible at no very distant day. The educational committee of the church will have oversight of the work of Mrs. Haystead. This committee is made up of A. B. Clapp, chairman; J. A. Newton, vice-chairman; G. F. Snyder, Dr. D. R. Boyd and Howard L. Brown. The Sunday school superintendent and the pastors of the church are also ex-officio members of this committee.

Mrs. Haystead has already begun her work. At present she is living in Los Angeles but hopes soon to take up her residence in Glendale.

Powerful X-Ray Used to Stop Cancer Growth

WASHINGTON, June 16.—The most remarkable X-Ray experiment in American medical history ended, probably successfully, today, when Anna Ellin of Spring Valley, N. Y., who suffered from cancerous growth, completed slightly more than thirteen consecutive hours' treatment, under X-Ray voltage of from 240,000 to 250,000.

Formerly 150,000 volts was the maximum and an hour and 45 minutes the longest period of treatment. The experiment was in charge of Dr. Seth I. Hirsch, director of the X-Ray laboratory at Bellevue hospital.

The tube used was powerful enough to send power through a protecting brick wall six feet from the patient. Only a portion of her body was exposed. She slept at intervals and took liquid nourishment. Doctors watched constantly at her side.

Hitherto the chief problem in X-Ray treatment of cancer has been to protect healthy tissue from burns. Doctors today said it was too early to discuss the result of their experiment but were hopeful of success.

Another remarkable experiment was reported today from the New York infirmary for women and children where a baby's life was saved by withering the thymus gland.

Police Seek Slayer in Neighbor's Fight

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 16.—Police here today were seeking Charles Masterson, wanted as the alleged slayer of Jack Fairchild, twenty-five, who was shot and killed last night following a fist fight between the two men following an alleged insult by Masterson to Fairchild's young wife.

According to information given police, Masterson insulted the wife when she was in her back yard, which adjoins that of Masterson. She told her husband, who beat up Masterson. The latter became enraged, police say, and, procuring a pistol, battered down the door of the Fairchild home and shot and killed the young husband.

BOOZE, ALIENS CAUSE FOR LAWS

President Disapproves Extra Session to Deal With Pressing Problems

WASHINGTON, June 16.—President Harding is not contemplating issuing a call for a special session of congress to iron out the tangle resulting from the supreme court dry seizure ruling, it was stated officially at the White House Friday.

While the court's far-reaching decision admittedly has brought before the administration an embarrassing and perplexing problem, Mr. Harding was said to feel that the situation has not yet developed to such an extent that immediate action by congress is necessary.

Registration of all aliens will be recommended to the next congress by the administration, it has been announced at the White House.

The problem of stopping the smuggling of aliens into the United States was discussed at the cabinet meeting Friday, and it was declared the government would fight the bootlegging of aliens just as it did the bootlegging of liquor.

MUSIC STUDENTS TO GIVE RECITAL

Entertainment Is Scheduled For Tuesday, June 19, in C. of C. Hall

The early summer days are being featured by countless prevacation musical programs, and one of interest announced for the coming week is a recital given by pupils of Alberta M. Green, assisted by Mrs. Minnie West McDonald, pianist; Gilmour McDonald, pianist, of Pasadena, and Vernon Spencer, of Los Angeles. Tuesday night, June 19, at 8:15 o'clock, in the Chamber of Commerce hall.

In addition to the musical numbers on the program, there will be demonstrations of theory and technique by Mr. Spencer. A cordial invitation has been issued to the public to attend the affair.

Those appearing on the program will be Mary Stapp, June Culhane, Ruth White, Harriett Stryker, Carolyn Spradling, Marjorie Howe, Laura Louise Randall, Zuanette Linn, Viola Mann, Larraine Masters, Dorothy Howe, Martha Jones, Constance Boynton Cecilia Stapp, Genevieve Burr, Gratia Boynton, Ethel Keller, Virginia Buriff, Mary Lamoreaux, Mary Vandiver, Vivian Sanderson, Noel Culhane and Markaret Sanderson.

Miss Green, who is an assistant teacher with Mr. Spencer, resides at 151 South Delaware avenue, Eagle Rock.

Boy Spirited Away by Father, Belief

SAN FRANCISCO, June 16.—Search by local police for Charles Castagnone, charged with kidnaping his six-year-old son, Lewis, on complaint of Mrs. Anna Del Prato, his estranged wife, recalled a similar complaint lodged against Mrs. Del Prato about a year and a half ago by her mate. Subsequent to their separation, the boy was ordered placed in a Palo Alto military academy by the court. When vacation days arrived, this week, Castagnone, disobeying the court order, spirited him away.

GERMAN RAILWAY

A German railway with 6 per cent grades, where formerly a rack system was used, now is employing a locomotive using superheated steam to haul trains over ordinary rails.

Registering of Aliens Sought by Officials

WASHINGTON, June 18.—The serious problem confronting the government in preventing the smuggling of aliens into the United States was laid before the cabinet Friday by Secretary of Labor Davis.

Davis told President Harding and the cabinet members that registrations of aliens was the only way he knew to effectively stop "bootlegging" of immigrants.

Five thousand Chinese seamen, now in New York illegally, are being rounded up by agents of the immigration service, and are to be deported, Davis said.

Embargo Placed on Cattle in Imperial

SACRAMENTO, June 16.—Dr. J. P. Iverson, chief of the division of animal industry of the state department of agriculture, has announced that an embargo has been placed on all cattle in Imperial county to prevent the spread of cattle scab, recently discovered in the county.

Dr. Iverson said that this is the first time cattle scab has been found in California to any extent.

CONDITIONS FOR GROWTH ASSURED

Sparr Heights Possesses All Elements That Make For Prosperity

"To get a correct view of any human structure," said Mr. Walters of Barnum-Walters Company, developers of Sparr Heights, "one must have the proper perspective. This can only be attained at some distance from the object, for when too near it the proportion and harmony are obscured, perhaps by size, perhaps by the nature of the picture, statue or building under examination.

"Thus it is that the people nearest to the marvelous development that is taking place in our section of the country fail to visualize its true meaning, because they do not see it in perspective, as do the newcomer and the thoughtful who have reflected upon the elements that have created it. We sometimes hear expressions of pessimism as to the continuance of the conditions which are creating our prosperity.

"The facts are that while some portions of the country have one or more of the basic conditions for prosperity, no other section has them all. For there is proximity to avenues of transport for what industry may create. The Orient and South America today are the most promising markets of the world for our manufactures, and our ports are their outlets, and the way that the port business has grown in the past year demonstrates that here manufacture, only so short time ago in its infancy, has already attained lusty proportions and is still growing.

"Cheap and abundant power is the chief factor in manufacture, and not only is that already available but vast potential sources are at hand. So we find woolen mills, cotton mills, steel, rubber and myriad other industries depending upon them are being established and taking deep and permanent root.

Credit to Pioneers

"The credit for the prosperity of Los Angeles and its environs cannot be claimed by those who have done nothing but laud it, but it is to the pioneers in the various fields of endeavor that we owe its great progress. They had faith in its old fields, in its agricultural possibilities, in its suitability for manufactures, in the development of its power, and they put their money behind their faith.

"The so-called 'conservative capitalist' is the beneficiary of these men. He may make after-dinner speeches in which he extols the glory of the achievements witnessed here, but his part of the program has been a 'bet on a sure thing,' an investment after all of the element of hard work has been eliminated.

"The money that is now pouring in here is not of that character. The perspective has shown that nothing can stop the progress of a community whose financial 'nerve center' is constantly stimulated by the very best quality of nourishment. In other words, with a million residents in the metropolitan area of Los Angeles, fully one-half of them with the pioneer spirit that is a combination of wisdom, courage and faith, what has been done here is merely the beginning of what will ultimately be accomplished.

"Our inquiries reveal that the first and most important consideration of the newcomer and of the old resident who is being surrounded by the activities of business, is for a home for his family where all of the benefits of residence here can be enjoyed, and at Sparr Heights we are able to satisfy these requirements. The modern home demands modern equipment, the best surroundings and advantages for society, education and culture. These will be found here in our new town, and no matter how great its population becomes, it will always be a residential community of the highest class, surrounded by a beauty that cannot be obscured nor marred.

"The fame of Los Angeles is world-wide and no other city receives the attention in the public press that it does. Its progress has been so stupendous that we have virtually accomplished a growth of population alone in a score of years that it took the older cities to achieve in a century. It behooves some of the 'old-timers' who are asleep at the switch to wake up and sense the new times, for they are good times, permanent foundation for better times, and sound business sense dictates that they should participate and not become a part of what Artemus Ward would call 'the meechin' minority.'"

Girl Athletes Spend Day on Beach Picnic

The Girls' Athletic Club of Glendale Union High school today is enjoying an outing at Hermosa Beach. The day is being spent in bathing and a general good time, divided by a picnic lunch. Hiking pins are being awarded and officers are being elected for next year. The trip was made in busses which left the school grounds about 7 o'clock this morning. About twenty-five girls made the trip. Among those scheduled to accompany them were Mrs. Ethel Moyse, Miss Florence Knight, Miss Lillian E. Shattuck, Mrs. Gertrude Ballard and Mrs. Carol W. Kolts.

Eastern Banker Joins Security Trust Staff

Fleming and family of Kitanning, Pa., where the former was the assistant cashier of the Farmers' National bank, have moved to Glendale where he will be employed in the Security Trust & Savings bank. For the time the family is living with Mrs. Fleming's brother, W. E. Hewitt, 319 East Randolph street.

KIWANIANS ARE STUDENTS' HOSTS

Members of Senior Class Help Make Luncheon Lively Function

Glendale Kiwanians were hosts yesterday noon at the Tuesday Afternoon clubhouse to the male members of the senior class of Glendale Union High school.

Men were boys and boys were men for the occasion. Wearing brightly-colored tissue paper carnival skull caps and batting colorful toy balloons about over the table, all present joined in making sure that the luncheon was a lively affair. Members of the club cheered the seniors and then the seniors cheered the club. All united in singing the songs which were led by Kiwanian "Ollie" W. Andresen and accompanied by Senior Ralph Van Hoorebeck.

"Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here!" started the excitement. Two Kiwanis songs were sung in the middle of the luncheon, and the gossipy song about "Peggy O'Neli' at the conclusion.

The official welcome was extended to the boys by Lyman P Clark, past president of the club The response was made by Allan Pollock, president of the high school class of 1923.

A. L. Ferguson, president of the club, and George U. Moyse, principal of the high school, both expressed their pleasure that the boys and men should be able to get each other's viewpoints.

Emphasizes Motto

Frank L. Fox made a short after-dinner speech, in which he emphasized the importance of the Kiwanian motto, "we build," for all seniors who expect to make a success of life.

"I notice that the boy who prepares himself to do the other fellow's job makes a success," he remarked. "Prepare yourself for a little more than you have to do and you are sure to make a success."

Rev. C. A. Cole, pastor of the Central Christian church, said, in a ten-minute speech: "It is not so much a boy problem in communities today as a man problem. Boys go where they are led by men. We need in every community men who will be fit leaders of boys."

Other guests of the occasion included Earl Brown and Morgan N. Smith, senior class teachers, and Irving H. Oliver, business manager of Glendale Union High school.

The silent boost was loganberry beverage, donated by Kiwanian S. W. Brown, of 463 West Los Feliz road, manager of the S. W. Brown Beverage company.

Tables were attended by twelve senior girls: Miss Rose Nelson, Miss Ruth Allaback, Miss Vera Neeley, Miss Alice Domaler, Miss Gertrude Petersen, Miss Dorothy Crook, Miss Eula Stevenson, Miss Delva Wood, Miss Mildred Thompson, Miss Beatrive Sutton, Miss Clara Clark and Miss Marjory Howard.

LIVE COMMUNITY IS HOME CENTER

Acacia Hills Insures Owner Against Encroachment By Commerce

"What is beyond?" This is a question in the mind of every traveler when he watches the road over which he is passing, and the answer to it determines his pace and the route he takes. In life, the same as in traveling, the mind and the plans are always shaped by the needs and desires that center on the future, and in every decision what lies beyond it is the most important thing to be considered.

That which lies beyond Acacia Hills is a marvel of growth such has been witnessed in no other locality in the United States in the same period of time. On the one hand lies Glendale, a city of homes, whose growth has been the most phenomenal of all the phenomenal development of Southern California. Its population is of that sort that cherishes the home above all other social ideals and sees in its sanctity and progress the future of the nation. Practically all of its business, now bearing comparison in every retail line with that of the metropolis, ministers to the local needs. It has some basic industries, but these are along the lines of the steam railroad, where their product may be easily transported, but the home is the center of the community.

On the other side of Acacia Hills, and so near to it that what are considered the close-in metropolitan areas are not more convenient for the man who is occupied in the city, is Los Angeles, destined to become the largest city in America within a few years, and growing at a rate which is astounding and of which actual figures give some idea.

With four thousand tourists now coming in daily, by steam roads, though the regular "tourist season" has ended, 3,000 weekly by automobile, and 4,000 more by steamer every week, 120,000 persons are pouring into this section every month, the estimate places 500,000 as the probable increase of our population in Southern California for the current year.

Rapid Building

To provide for the homeseekers in the year just past, an average of one house every minute and a half for every working day of the year is the staggering record. The tide of humanity flowing into this section seems to augment with every passing month, and it is true that "money from everywhere" is upon its waves. Six hundred new basic industries for the year, established within the limits of Los Angeles, means that the money coming is being invested in commercial enterprises as well as in home building.

Great areas, once residential, in the city are rapidly becoming industrial, and the thousands of workers employed must have quarters near their work. The man who a few years ago established a home within these areas could not see "what was beyond," and now, when crowded by conditions that are not conducive to the home he dreamed of, is disposing of his property and thus a vast hegira is taking place of the old residents and they are seeking new locations.

Acacia Hills promises them that no such encroachments upon their peace as has taken place can ever occur, when their homes are built within that tract. Within a comparatively short time the city will be at the very foot of this lovely hill. Homesites that are desirable are growing scarcer every day, and especially homesites where there can be no commercial encroachment.

Business men, salaried men, professional men, every class of discriminating home builders, will find here, with every prospect of "what is beyond" to their liking, and besides will have the advantage, at Acacia Hills, of a view equal to the best that can be seen by the millionaires who have spent money like water in building on the hills of Hollywood and Beverly.

Beauty is an asset which never loses either its spiritual or material value, and in the view afforded from Acacia Hills, of Glendale, the two wide and lovely valleys stretching away to the encircling foothills, and the nearer prospect of pretty homes and tree-embowered streets, there is a charm which makes a home so situated a constant delight.

Hamlin & Hepburn To Open Castle Heights; Fine View, All Improvements, Good Roads

"WE have never before offered a subdivision in which we take so much pride," states E. D. Hamlin, of Hamlin & Hepburn, 203 West Broadway, in announcing the opening of Castle Heights, at Western avenue and Mountain street, adjoining the castle estate of L. C. Brand, president of the Title Guarantee & Trust Company, Los Angeles. "We think so highly of Castle Heights that we have reserved two lots there, one for Mr. Hepburn and one for myself, and will build our own homes on the property.

"F. A. Watson, retired capitalist of Minnesota, who spent the past winter in Southern California and looked over the field thoroughly, has also bought a lot at Castle Heights and plans to build there in a few months, on his return from Boston, Mass., where he is now visiting.

"We made a very fortunate purchase when we bought this tract," Mr. Hamlin continues, "so fortunate indeed that we were offered a profit of many thousand dollars to sell it in a single block. We refused to sell, however, feeling that, having acquired the property at such a favorable consideration, we were in a position to subdivide and sell it at prices and values never before offered for similar property, and that the tract would sell out very quickly to individual buyers.

Fine View Lots

"This we have now done and are offering, starting Sunday, June 17, thirty-four magnificent view lots, 50x165, 60x165 and 64x170, easily accessible and near main boulevards and car line, at prices ranging from $1750 to $4250, on terms of $500 down and 2 per cent per month, with every improvement paid for, including water, gas, electricity, curbs, gutters, sidewalks and the best macadam pavement, and with restrictions of from $5000 to $7500."

Mr. Hamlin states that salesmen will be on the tract all day Sunday and thereafter, the location being identified by a number of orange and black banners, and approached by driving out San Fernando road or Kenneth road to Grand View avenue, thence north to Brand Castle, where the tract will be found, at the corner of Western avenue and Mountain street.

On Main Boulevard

Mr. Hamlin stresses the fact that two main boulevards run by the door, Western avenue running from Griffith park to the mountains, and Mountain street running from Burbank at the Sunset Canyon Country club to Grand View avenue.

Castle Heights, Mr. Hamlin feels, would command twice the price being obtained, were it located in Hollywood, and would not be as desirable, not having the superb panoramic view of Eagle Rock to Lankershim, offered by this tract, nor the restful valley in the foreground, with the green hills of Griffith park for a relief.

In addition, it is pointed out that Castle Heights is but one block from Grand View avenue, one block above Tenth street, two blocks above Kenneth road and three blocks from the car line.

ADOPT NEW EMBLEM

The new official emblem of the National Association of Real Estate Boards is an oval symbolizing the field of the realtor through a landscape silhouette of home roof and the towers of city block. The emblem incorporates the word "realtor" and will be made part of the corporate seal of the National association.

BUILDING SEWERS

Bids for construction of Sections 11 to 14, inclusive, of the north outfall sewer for Los Angeles, to be built under the $12,000,000 bond issue recently voted, will be opened July 9 by the board of public works.

PAVING WESTERN AVENUE TO SEA

Plan Revealed Today Will Aid Suburban Heights Property in City

"Western avenue, when the work of extending this big boulevard is completed, will pass right through the heart of Suburban Heights to Tenth street and then on to the foothills.

"This means, in a few words, that property fronting on and immediately adjoining this main artery of travel will increase to double and treble their present values. The people of Glendale, who are the most ardent supporters of improvement projects of all kinds that go toward the betterment of their city, hardly yet realize the tremendous and widespread activity that will take place in realty deals the minute this work is under way. It is only necessary to look back during the past twelve months and go over the fortunes that have been made on other parts of Western avenue to realize what must occur at this end in a very short space of time. The paving of that part of Western avenue from Tenth street to Mountain street is now completed and opens for traffic in a few days.

Speaks of Location

"Located in the most advantageous position to share in these increased values is Suburban Heights, in Glendale's most exclusive residential section and only a few feet west of the L. C. Brand's famed Miradero castle estate on Tenth street. This wonderful scenic property is covered with vines and trees, has a glorious scenic outlook covering estates and costly homes. Everything for the comfort and convenience of buyers has received the special attention of the subdividers. Curbs and sidewalks of the best material, streets, shade trees, water, gas and electricity have already been installed, at no expense to the purchaser, and already a number of the beautiful new homes have been erected and are under construction.

"The terms upon which these wonderful home sites, many of which face directly on Western avenue, are being offered today, can never be repeated. Here again will be the same thing as was seen on other parts of this famous highway. Lots will be sold at increased prices, not once or twice but dozens of times, with profit to the owners. The first buyer is the party to make the easiest money; in other words, the demand is here, and no matter whether today's purchaser builds or speculates, he is most assuredly due for a very substantial profit."

Ideal Time to Tour Says George T. Smith

Now is the ideal time to start on the summer camping trip, according to George T. Smith of the Smith-Sloan Company, 228 South Brand boulevard, Overland and Willys-Knight dealers, who returned yesterday from a trip into the San Bernardino mountains.

The rains of the last forty-eight hours have made the California hills most verdant, he announces, and he suggests that the great amount of touring this year makes it wise to arrange for your new car now.

TOTAL ON PRODUCTS

The value of manufactured products of Southern California in 1922 totaled $961,000,000, motion pictures topping the list with a total production of $156,000,000, leading petroleum products by a margin of over $20,000,000.

TURN OVER MONEY

The University of Southern California has presented to the Los Angeles Realty Board a substantial sum of money, out of the tuition of real estate students. The money will be used for the installation of a library and other kindred purposes.

RESTRICTION RULE

Lot owners cannot enforce restrictions in deeds for property in a tract, unless it is distinctly set forth in the deed that such restrictions are imposed for the benefit of all lot owners, is a ruling of the California supreme court.

in America, laid out 158 years ago, as the old "Road of the Missions," and having grown steadily greater with the passage of the years.

5. It is located between Brand boulevard and the Southern Pacific main line tracks, as it runs through Glendale, thus serving both industrial, business and residence purposes.

Get Quick Profits

Instances of sharp rises and quick profits in real estate transactions along San Fernando road are legion.

The southeast corner of Park avenue and San Fernando road could have been bought two years ago for somewhere around $15 per front foot. Today this corner could not be bought for $130 per front foot.

The southwest corner of Garfield avenue and San Fernando road is being held at $180 or over per front foot. It could have been bought for $15 per front foot two years ago.

The 270 front feet at 1132 South San Fernando road was bought for $8,000 two years ago. Today it could not be bought for less than $60,000, if at all.

The southwest corner of Park avenue and San Fernando road could have been bought for $16,000 as late as September of last year. Today the owner would not sell for under $40,000.

Story of Success

The northeast corner of Garfield avenue and San Fernando road was sold in December of last year for $6,000, was sold again in February of this year for $10,000, and $14,000 was refused for it before it was out of escrow.

And so the story goes, translated into terms of dollars and cents from the golden manuscript in the office of the county recorder, Hall of Records, Los Angeles, where each transfer of property is registered—a magic story of a magic road, whose future, realtors and property owners of the section believe, will be the story proper, whose past and present are but the prelude and the opening chapter.

L. A. COUNTY RICH

Assessors' figures on the appraised valuation of property in Los Angeles county show a total of $1,645,000,000, which is equal to that of thirty states of the union.

CLIMATE IDEAL, STATISTICS SHOW

Data of Thirty Years Are Quoted to Confirm Weather Claims

Information collected over the last thirty years, which has been compiled by the Department of Meteorology and Aeronautics of the Chamber of Commerce, tends to show that Los Angeles is one of the few places in the world having what is defined as "ideal weather."

"The Healthful Climate of Southern California" is the title of the booklet which has just come from the press.

According to the booklet there are but few places in the world which enjoy ideal climate, and the section of California in which Los Angeles is located is said to be one.

Statistics taken from government records show that Los Angeles has but one day in June on which the thermometer records a maximum temperature of more than ninety degrees, two in October, one in November and twelve in all during the year. The mercury rises over the 100 mark in Los Angeles on an average of less than one day each year.

In forty-three years, between 1880 and 1923, there have been but sixteen days on which a minimum temperature below the freezing point was recorded. Rain comes in January, February, March and December on three days for for each month with a quarter of an inch precipitation. Additional data regarding the rainy season are also contained in the pamphlet.

Between 1905 and 1922 there were on an average eleven sunless days during each year, 172 clear days, 137 partly cloudy days, fifty-six cloudy days and twenty-nine days on which there was dense fog.

DO NOT AGITATE

"It is much easier to frighten the public into a cessation of building than to induce it to resume building after confidence in stability of building costs has been impaired. Agitation of any sort, therefore, calculated to upset the present mood of the people to build, is to be deplored," recently declared a nationally known banker, George Woodruff, of Chicago.

U. S. INDUSTRIES SHOW PROSPERITY

Danger of Inflation Past, Declares Financial Authority

spring, when the country was just beginning to realize that it had entered upon a period of unexampled prosperity, have borne fruit. It is now generally admitted that, with the exception of the building industry which because of costs is nearing paralysis in the east, all danger of inflation is passed, says James Wilbur of Blyth, Witter & Co.

Despite the fact that practically all industries in the United States now are working as near 100 per cent as the labor supply will permit, there has been no noticeable increase in commodity prices. On the contrary, prices within the past several weeks have shown slight recessions.

That such conditions exist is due entirely to the sagacity of the American business men who, with the lessons of 1920 yet fresh in their minds, have refrained from advancing prices in the face of an overwhelming demand. In this manner they have been enabled to work ahead steadily, with sufficient orders booked to keep them at capacity for the balance of the year.

Orders Cancelled

It was the heavy orders on the books of the manufacturers in 1920 which led to the undoing of avaricious manufacturers. They overlooked the fact that orders are subject to cancellation. Retailers, indifferent as to the prices paid so long as a ready sale awaited their goods, lost no time in cancelling orders when the public longer refused to pay the high prices. This general cancellation of orders immediately resulted in the curtailment of factory outputs. The demand for labor vanished, and the country entered upon a severe period of depression.

This year it is different. Orders placed now are at fair prices. Goods are sold at fair prices, and a ready market may be maintained as long as prices are stable. But, at the first sign of inflation, it will be found that the public, wise through its experiences of several years ago, will revolt, with all the untoward consequences which always follow attempts to gouge the people.
